Fox Cities Residents Deaths Raise State Toll to 546

OSHKOSH — A two-car accident at U.S. 41 and County Trunk J at 4:45 p. m. Sunday took the lives of two Fox Cities area women, critically injured the husband of one and hospitalized three Michigan residents.

The accident brought to 16 the death toll for the weekend on Wisconsin highways. Five members of a single family were killed in another accident. The toll is 546 compared with 490 on this day a year ago.

Killed near Oshkosh were Mrs. Julia Sommer, 77, 615 Church St., Neenah, and Mrs. Henry Becker, 69, 117 Pine St., Brillion.

They were passengers in a car driven by Henry Becker, 69, husband of one of the victims. He was critically injured with a skull fracture and other injuries.

Others Injured
Injured in the other car were Thomas Holliday, 53, Beechwood, Mich., driver; his wife, Julia, 53, and Mrs. Sylvia Hendrickson, 56, Iron River, Mich. Holliday had possible chest injuries, his wife a possible broken nose, broken teeth and possible internal injuries and Mrs. Hendrickson, a cut under the chin and possible chest injuries.

Winnebago County police and state traffic police said the cars collided in the northbound lane of 41. The highway is a divided four-lane section at the county trunk intersection.

Holliday told police he saw the Becker car approach the highway on J. Holliday said he slowed but did not brake as he expected Becker to stop. Becker did not stop, and the Holliday car hit the right side of the Becker car. Holliday said he could not swerve to the right to avoid the crash because there were other cars in the way.

Riders in both cars were in the front seats. Becker was thrown from his auto and his two passengers thrown part way from the car. The women were dead on arrival at Mercy Hospital.

The Town of Oshkosh fire department was called to the scene.

2 Fliers Killed In Crash After Warning of Fire

WISCONSIN DELLS (AP) — Two men flying a Civil Air Patrol practice search were killed Sunday when their plane plunged into a field after they dipped down to give a warning of a fire near a lumber yard.

The victims were Norman G. Wise, 40, of Madison, the pilot, and Robert W. Hughes, 27, of Middleton. The CAP headquarters at Madison said their plane was one of several participating in a practice mission searching for two "dummy" aircraft which had crashed.

Matt Theisen, an Adams County lumber dealer, said he saw the plane come down and a note thrown out. He lost sight of the note and the craft swooped lower, its occupants pointing to where the note had landed. Then the plane nosedived 75 feet to the earth.

'Time of My Life' Series Begins in Paper Today

Hany times you've said, "I'm having the time of my life," only to have that experience topped over and over again by succeeding events and circumstances.

Lime-light-type people have these experiences, too, and what they have to say about them in a six-part series starting today entitled, "The Time of My Life," makes exciting reading.

Each day this week, notable personalities like James Thurber, J. Edgar Hoover, Richard Rodgers, Carl Sandburg, Adm. Chester Nimitz and the incomparable Tallulah Bankhead make candid, often humorous and surprising revelations about their most rewarding experiences.

Turn to page B-6 in this evening's Post-Crescent and read what James Thurber recalls about, "The Time of My Life."

Tunisia Urges West to Side Against French

Delegate Asks U. S. To Help Get Troops Out of Territory

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)

Tunisia today appealed to the United States and France's other Western allies to join in supporting U.N. action to get French troops out of Tunisian territory.

The appeal was made by Tunisian delegate Mongi Slim at a special session of the U.N. General Assembly. France boycotted the meeting.

Slim led off the debate after 32 countries had submitted a formal proposal that the 99-nation assembly call on France to negotiate for withdrawal of all her troops from Tunisia, including the big naval base at Bizerte.

Move Quickly
The Tunisian delegate urged the Western powers to forget that France is a member of the Western camp and to join with the Soviet Union as they did last year in the Congo debate when they demanded withdrawal of Belgian forces.

The Assembly convened at 11 a. m. and got down to business quickly. Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, president of the last regular assembly, was chosen without opposition to preside.

The session was called to deal with the "grave situation in Tunisia" after the Security Council deadlocked on steps to end the French-Tunisian dispute.

The sponsors of the resolution included 31 countries from Africa and Asia plus Yugoslavia.

The session posed a new test of the Kennedy administration's anticolonial policy.

Delegates from Asian, African or neutralist nations waited to see if the United States would vote for the resolution or if it would abstain as it did on similar proposals.

Anti-Cholera Vaccine Rushed to Hong Kong

The scare spread to Formosa and the Philippines.

Hong Kong health officials reported 32 confirmed cases of cholera—the first since 1947—and 20 suspected cases. Social workers said the total may be as high as 100 but they have not been reported.

Reds Blame Americans
The English-language South China Morning Post reported a few days ago that cholera had killed 30,000 in China's southeast Kwangtung Province. The Communists were reported holding mass meetings to blame the Americans for the epidemic—raising the germ-warfare charges they did in the Korean War.

Red China is the main source of Hong Kong's food supplies and health inspectors have been posted on the border to check all shipments coming into the colony.

The scare has brought travel between China and Hong Kong to a virtual standstill.

Swimming Pools Close
With supplies of anti-cholera vaccine running low, shipments were being flown in from Britain, the United States and a half-dozen other countries.

Swimming pools are closed, beaches practically deserted and many restaurants refuse to serve uncooked dishes.

As thousands flocked to inoculation centers, medical teams flew

Vice President Thinks Ties Become Stronger

Johnson to Report to Kennedy on Results of Journey to W. Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson brought back to President Kennedy today a report that the free world's bonds have been strengthened by his 36-hour visit to West Berlin.

The presidential jet touched down at nearby Andrews Air Force Base at 11:04 a. m. after a 7 hours 45 minute flight.

The vice president's plane landed on a mist shrouded runway. Despite the bad weather and the arduous and dramatic weekend journey, Johnson seemed in good spirits.

Johnson was scheduled to report to the White House after Kennedy returns late this afternoon from his Hyannis Port, Mass., summer home.

In an arrival statement read beside his plane, Johnson said he had returned from his conferences with top German officials convinced that ties between United States, West Berlin and West Germany "already very strong, have been made even stronger and more enduring."

Happy Over Reception
Johnson labeled his reception, and that of the 1,500 man U. S. re-enforcement dispatched to Berlin over the week end as "heart-warming."

He expressed belief he succeeded in removing "anxieties between friends."

The vice president also voiced "unlimited compassion for the suffering now being endured by the people of East Berlin and East Germany and their relatives and friends," as a result of the Reds' Berlin barricade. He added:

"No one who has seen and talked to the refugees from East Germany, as I have done, can fail to realize what a profound human tragedy is involved. That realization must heighten the urgency with which we consider our own responsibilities, and the responsibilities of our allies, in dealing with the issues raised by the Berlin crisis."

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt who had demanded "political action" by the allies rather than paper protests, said Johnson's visit was "the greatest help we could get at this moment."

Before the vice president left, a fresh battle group of 1,500 American troops rolled in to strengthen his repeated pledge that the United States will stand firm with West Berlin and the Communist-encircled city "can never be bullied into the surrender of its freedom."

The new arrivals brought the U.S., British and French garrisons in West Berlin to a total of 12,000 troops.

Russians Assail Visit
The Moscow press called Johnson's visit "provocative" and decried the dispatch of the American troops reinforcements as "military hysteria." But the Soviets gave polite clearance to the U. S. Army convoy that crossed 110 miles of Communist territory to get here from West Germany.

Mayor Brandt, who said his discussions with Johnson went "far beyond the Berlin issue," said there will be no war and predicted East-West talks late in the fall.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a U.S. television audience he did not expect the Soviet threats to West Berlin to lead to war.

"We do expect negotiations to take place—negotiations will occur," Rusk said. He said he did not yet know how, when or where.

Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall, left, and Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges did some trout fishing in Hazel Creek, N. C., Saturday. Udall, a newcomer to the sport, caught his creel limit, while Hodges, an old-timer on mountain streams, landed only a single trout.

Billy Graham Offers 3-Point Berlin Plan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham has suggested to President Kennedy a three-point program for Berlin which he says would wake up the American people, frighten their enemies and encourage those living under communism.

The evangelist put forth the program Sunday at the start of a month-long Greater Philadelphia Crusade at Convention Hall.

Graham said the president should:

"First, call for a United Nations General Assembly meeting to find out why the refugees are fleeing East Germany."

"Secondly, the President should again spell out in a speech in no uncertain terms that we will not retreat, compromise or appease the anywhere in the world—that from now on we are starting a peacetime counter-offensive to roll communism back in Eastern Europe."

Time to Speak On
"Third, the President should call a day of prayer as a time from God. If we depend upon military power alone, we're finished."

He said, "Our help must come from God. If we depend upon military power alone, we're finished."

Officer Slain After Stopping Motorists

Another Wounded; 1 of 3 Gunmen Hurt in Accident

LAKE DELTON (AP) — One car was wrecked near Lyndon police officer was killed and another wounded early today in an exchange of gunfire with three of the gunmen was pulled from the wreck and taken to a hospital. One of the gunmen was shot through the head and killed but there was confusion over his identity.

Deputy Sheriff James Jantz, 26, said the man was from Chicago by a single shot was Sauk County name. He suffered broken legs. The other two fled into a wooded area and were sought by about 100 volunteers and officers from five counties. Dogs were brought in from Madison and Eau Claire and a helicopter joined the search at daybreak.

Lake Delton Police Chief Robert Cole, about 50, was shot in the chest. He was rushed to University Hospitals in Madison where he was reported responding to treatment prior to surgery. His condition was serious.

Followed Auto
Mrs. Michael Spencer, Sauk County Sheriff, said the three officers followed the car, with an Illinois license plate, because the three men had been spending a lot of money at a resort near the delton for the past three or four days.

She said the officers stopped the car about 2 a. m. in Lake Delton for a routine check. Then hours before it was brought in, the shooting broke out. The third der control. It was the second big fire in the area.

He said, "Our help must come from God. If we depend upon military power alone, we're finished."

Second in 3 Days

Fire Destroys Railway Terminal, Dock Area

WEEHAWKEN, N. J. (AP) — A half-mile railroad terminal and dock area was destroyed today by a fire which raged for three hours before it was brought under control. It was the second big fire in the area.

Forty-five minutes later, the huge ferry terminal, adjoining docks, and several nearby freight sheds and boxcars had been reduced to a glowing pile of crackling timber. Flames could be seen from the center of Manhattan on the New York side of the river.

Abandoned 4 Years Ago
The terminal building covered almost a full city block. It was a one-story, shed-type frame building. It had been abandoned about four years ago, when the New York Central eliminated passenger service on that line.

Four hundred firemen from 12 departments in Hudson and Bergen counties were joined by fireboats from New York City and the Coast Guard in fighting to contain the blaze.

During the fire, six trucks were recalled to West New York, N. J., just north of Weehawken, where a fire destroyed three piers at an estimated $1-million loss Friday night.

Drizzle Hampers Fireman
A light but steady drizzle — not heavy enough to help quench the flames — hampered the firemen at the terminal.

James Woodcock, 42, received minor burns on his arms and hands while he was assisting firemen.

Twelve persons were injured at the fire in West New York Friday, none seriously.

Ralph Cinque, 19, has been missing since the blaze. Police said he leaped into the river when he was threatened by flames.

The West New York fire razed three piers, a boat repair yard, two buildings and a dozen barges.

Armored Cars, Part of a convoy of American troops that arrived in West Berlin yesterday to bolster the Allied garrison there, pass through a crowd on a Berlin street.

Fight Possible Over Civil Rights Measure

Senate Leadership Wants to Extend Life of Commission; House Has Hijacking Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate plows into a scrap over smoldering civil rights legislation today, while the House takes up a bill providing a death penalty for airplane hijackers.

Promising sparks in the Senate was a leadership-sponsored move to suspend the rules and hook onto an appropriation bill a two-year extension of the Civil Rights Commission, now due to expire Nov. 9.

Advocates of other civil rights measures planned to try to get in some links of their own despite the damper the Kennedy administration has put on legislation in this field this year.

Routine Bills

The hijacking bill up for action in the House, along with a string of routine measures, is similar to legislation recently passed by the Senate in an effort to halt an outbreak of piracy in the skies.

It provides for a maximum penalty of death, and not less than 20 years' imprisonment, for hijacking airliners. In addition, it makes federal offenses of assaults, murder, robbery and other crimes committed aboard planes.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois will try to attach a bill extending the Civil Rights Commission to a $761-million appropriation measure for the State and Justice Departments and the federal courts.

Need Majority

To carry out this maneuver, it will be necessary to obtain a two-thirds majority to suspend a Senate rule banning extraneous legislation in an appropriation bill.

Mansfield told a reporter he expects the move to succeed—a prediction that was not challenged by Southern senators who fought creation of the commission and who oppose giving it a new lease on life.

"We appear to be at a disadvantage," said Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Dixie forces.

He maintained, however, that extension of the commission is wholly unnecessary. He said it already has had more time to carry out its work than its sponsors originally contended it needed.

De Gaulle Is Reluctant for Talks on Berlin

France Doesn't Feel West Should be Bullied Into Talks

PARIS—The French government is showing decided reluctance to join London and Washington in proposing to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev a conference over Berlin and Germany at the present time.

Sec. of State Dean Rusk's hint last night that preliminary talks are under way with Moscow on the timing of such negotiations was considered "hasty" by French officials.

If any such talks are really underway, they say, France is not among the conferring nations.

Despite his frequent reference to the need for cohesion among Atlantic Pact nations, French President Charles De Gaulle is more than ever opposed to what he calls "premature" overtures to Khrushchev on Berlin.

Decrease Tension

The French president still feels that the West should not negotiate so long as the artificially created tension hasn't decreased.

The feeling here is that since the West has strongly restated its determination to protect West Berliners, things in Berlin should slowly quiet down providing the West doesn't let itself be bullied into negotiations.

In the eyes of De Gaulle any offer to negotiate with the man who has raised the present storm in Berlin will only encourage him to continue.

Just how long the West should refuse to negotiate in De Gaulle's opinion is not clear. "At least until the Belgrade conference of unaligned nations has demonstrated how much support Khrushchev can count on from the neutralists," informed sources here say today.

September Conference

That conference begins Sept. 1. French officials doubt that Khrushchev will get the unanimous support that he expects.

Diplomatic circles here today believe that several of the neutralist leaders are going to suggest at Belgrade that the best way to solve the problem of Berlin and Germany is to ask the German people what they want.

India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, Prince Souvanna Phomma of Laos and Archbishop Makarios, premier of Cyprus, are among those expected to support self-determination for Germany at Belgrade.

The French official radio this morning broadcast a statement by Prince Souvanna that in the event the Germans are given a choice, the communists might well lose.

British Press Favorable to Johnson Visit

Tends to Regard It As Placating of West Germany

LONDON — Vice President Lyndon Johnson's visit to Berlin and the reinforcement of the American garrison by 1500 men over the weekend are regarded in London as acts of window dressing entirely designed to placate the people of West Berlin.

Neither of the gestures, it's felt here, in any way alters the accepted position of the Western Powers which is that the future of Berlin should be settled by negotiation with the Russians at the first possible moment.

In the negotiations, it's generally understood here, "everything will be negotiable except the right of free access to West Berlin and the continued freedom of West Berlin from Communist domination or control."

Fear Expressed

The fear expressed here is that the two measures will not only reassure the West Berliners and other West Germans but may be misinterpreted by them as indicating a far tougher attitude on the part of the Western Powers than actually exists. This, it's feared, could lead them and possibly the oppressed people of Communist East Berlin and East Germany to dangerous excesses involving the major powers.

This fear is expressed in moderate terms by Monday's Daily Telegraph, a conservative paper which is friendly to the United States and opposed to appeasement of the Russians.

"In giving free Germans these fresh tokens of our resolve to defend their freedom we have the right to expect that they should not, from the shelter of this protection, do anything which might increase the risk of an East-West conflict," it writes.

Elections Soon

"Whatever western initiative may be in preparation, negotiation is now unlikely until after the German elections in the middle of next month. It will hardly be possible at this stage to arrange for an effective foreign ministers' meeting, which now seems to be intended by the Western Powers, before then. In the meantime the Germans themselves are to a large extent guardians of the peace."

The feeling that the weekend's gestures were necessary to cool off the West Germans has caused British newspapers to be less critical of the details than they might otherwise have been.

But this didn't prevent much ill-concealed resentment at Johnson's remark to West Germans that "we have never had braver allies."

As allies of the United States in two wars to the finish started by the Germans, the British might be excused for taking umbrage at this remark.

Hits U.S.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, which tends to be more critical of the Americans than the Russians, was the most open proponent of all the British papers. "The Ballpoint Envoy," read a banner headline across its front page, referring to the fact that the Vice President had scattered souvenir pens among the Berlin multitudes.

Otherwise the British press gave the American gestures and the simultaneous reinforcement of British forces by 18 troop carriers and 16 scout cars sober and objective treatment.

The Daily Telegraph front-paged a report that the British government had rejected an American suggestion that she should reinforce her garrison in Berlin by a battalion. At the present time, according to the same paper, the British garrison in Berlin consists of only 3 battalions of infantry and one tank squadron.

Drive-In Movies and drive-in banks are a part of the American scene, so why not a drive-in barber shop? This scene in Indianapolis is the result of an automobile crash. Driver plowed into wall of barbershop and left the scene. He is being sought by police. Meanwhile the shop's owner simply decided to take advantage of the situation.

British Guiana Votes Today to Decide Fate

Three Parties Vie To Control Small British Colony

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Voters in this tiny British colony of East Indians and Negroes on South America's north coast chose a new government today in an election that political experts believe may decide whether British Guiana moves on to democratic independence or Soviet-style socialism.

Cheddi Jagan, Socialist with Communist leanings who has dominated the colony's politics for eight years, seeks to become its first premier. Opposing the East Indian dentist for power over the 83,000 square miles of tropical territory are Forbes Burnham, Socialistic lawyer leader of the Negro-dominated People's National Congress (PNC), and Peter Daguiar, an anti-Communist beer baron of Portuguese origin.

Daguiar

Burnham

Jagan attacked the United States in an election eve statement and said he did not "propose to establish any form of dictatorial regime."

Without denying his enemies' claim that his People's Progressive Party (PPP) is Communist, he said: "Events in Russia and Cuba have deeply wounded (North Americans') national pride and made their fear of communism psychopathic."

His opponents predicted that Jagan would lean to the Soviet side in the cold war if the PPP took enough seats in the legislature to form a new government. Jagan said aid to lift the 558,000 Guianese from the "mire of poverty" will be taken from the United States, Britain or Russia "without commitment of any sort."

Political experts forecast a close election, with Jagan's party winning 18 seats, Burnham's 16 and Daguiar's United Force only one.

'Not Sorry'

17-Year-Old Admits He Fatally Stabbed 2 Boys

BY ANDREW MEISELS

NEW YORK (AP) — A 17-year-old youth, one of a dozen children of a Puerto Rican family, was charged today with the murder of two Brooklyn boys. He stabbed them 55 times in a fit of sexual frenzy, police said.

The confessed slayer, Israel Santiago of Brooklyn, a 5-1, 185-pound weightlifter, showed no remorse as he sloshed through a pre-dawn rain to re-enact the crime for police in a weedy marshland in the Canarsie section of Brooklyn.

Only once did he break down—when he spotted a buddy outside a police station who had accompanied him to the marshland but who he swore was not present when he killed the boys.

'Not Sorry'

Assistant Chief Inspector Raymond V. Martin quoted Santiago as saying "I'm not sorry" for killing Augustin Trinidad Jr., 13, and Jaime Luis Ruiz, 9, last Tuesday. The story told by Santiago at the scene and in his confession "jibes exactly with the facts as we know them," Martin said.

Those facts, he said, indicated that Santiago and Herman Rosa, 15, went to the marshland as they often did. Santiago sent Rosa for cigarettes and, spotting the two boys playing there, tried to commit an unnatural sex act with Augustin.

When the boy resisted, Santiago knocked him down, tore off his clothes, bound him hand and foot and stabbed him 25 times with a kitchen paring knife, Martin said.

Jaime ran for help but, unable to find any, returned and flailed at Santiago with his suspenders. The 17-year-old easily overpowered the boy, tied him up with the suspenders and stabbed him 30 times, Martin added.

Then, the inspector said, Santiago ran out of the weeds, met the returning Rosa and said, "Let's get out of here."

When Santiago and Rosa were questioned with other residents of the area last week, they attempted to implicate a 40-year-old junkman who discovered the bodies, Martin said.

The boys were picked up again yesterday. After intensive interrogation, Santiago admitted the crime.

Still to be recovered is the knife used in the crime. Martin quoted the youth as saying he threw it into the weeds in the marsh. He said a search for the weapon would get under way.

Mood Changes in Berlin After Johnson's Visit, Troop Strengthening

Vice President Welcomed Warmly By Citizens as He Tours City

BY DAVID M. NICHOL

Chicago Daily News Service

BERLIN—Externally Berlin has changed very little as a result of the visit of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and the increase by nearly one-third of the U.S. garrison here.

The ghetto-like wall which the communists have thrown up since last Sunday between the two parts of Berlin continues to grow in size and effectiveness and the forcible annexation of East Berlin becomes more complete.

But in 36 hours the entire mood and atmosphere on both sides of these unnatural barriers has changed.

Last week the Berliners felt with some bitterness that they had been thrown to the Soviet wolves. Today they feel again that they are an integral and valued part of the free world and that they will not be abandoned.

Ready to Sacrifice

Conversely Johnson has taken back to Washington an amazing picture of a city prepared to face any sacrifices with courage and endurance so long as it has reliable allies.

It will influence any future discussions in Washington about the city's fate.

Quoting earlier Americans who gambled heavily and won their independence, Johnson pledged "Our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor" in the struggle for freedom and the Berliners in hundreds of thousands roared their enthusiastic participation.

"Where else in the world is there a city so conscious of its political responsibilities," asks the widely read newspaper BZ today.

Hard to Point

It would be difficult to point to one.

Everywhere Johnson went during his stay he was surrounded by exuberant thousands. Johnson's plane was an hour late in arriving Saturday night but the Berliners waited patiently often in pouring rain for his appearance.

Few foreign visitors anywhere ever have been received with such genuine positive emotion with the possible exception here of Gen. Lucius D. Clay whose cas is even more remarkable.

By all the normal standards of history Clay, as military governor of a defeated people, should not be high in their affection. Johnson was lated here as the personal representative of President Kennedy but there was a special warmth for Clay as an individual who was described repeatedly as "the savior of the city."

Clay ordered the airlift that broke the brutal year-long blockade of the city by the Soviets in 1948 and 1949 and the Berliners never have forgotten it.

Triumphant Procession

The arrival here of the 1500-man battle group of the U.S. 16th Infantry Regiment was a triumphal procession. The 110-mile journey across Communist-held East Germany from Helmstedt to the city's outskirts was without incident.

Too late for anything but a brief radio announcement, it was determined.

Britain Opposes Counter Measures On German Issue

Allies Accuse English of Dragging Feet Over Berlin Border Closing

BY WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

LONDON—It's now clear that Britain is firmly opposed to any kind of countermeasures against the East Germans in reprisal for the closing of the border between East and West Berlin to East German nationals.

At the same time extreme unhappiness is being evidenced at the fact that the British government's once again being accused by other allied governments of "dragging its feet" and "being soft to the Russians."

Criticism of Britain's relative reluctance to become excited about the Berlin affair has risen since the joint departure of both Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Foreign Sec. Lord Home to the grouse moors at the moment when communist measures were heightening sense of crisis both on continent and in Britain itself.

Quote Headline

Wednesday's Manchester Guardian quoted a headline from Paris Newspaper Liberation reading "Berlin—the English ne marchent pas—the British are not marching."

Britain's desire not to get out to Moscow in a few days it's expected to echo terms of the protest sent to the Russian commandant in East Berlin by western commanders yesterday.

The basis of their complaint is legally unassailable. It lies in the fact that the Russians formally agreed in writing at conclusion of a meeting of the council of foreign ministers held between May 23 and June 20, 1949, that they as well as the three Western Powers would be responsible for maintaining freedom of movement between the various sectors of Berlin.

This is one of the rare written undertakings ever given by the Russians in regard to Berlin and Germany. It followed the failure of their blockade of Berlin which formally ended May 12, 1949, after the Allies had effectively broken it by an airlift.

British Object

The British base their objection to any strenuous countermeasures against communist closure of inter-sector border in Berlin partly on the ground that such steps might distract attention from the difficulties which the East German regime is having in the with its own people. The fact that it had to coop them un behind barbed wire the British argue, may have strong influence in so-called neutral countries of the world when they have their conference in Belgrade early in September.

Other arguments are that countermeasures might not be effective in forcing the East Germans to relax their measures against intersector traffic that they might increase tension to a dangerous pitch and encourage flight in East Germany and that counter retaliation might be damaging to the West.

While they've joined in the general western protest against violation of the June 20 agreement and Four-Power agreements concerning Berlin, the argument still is that Sunday's measures were taken against the East German regime's own people and that they did not affect western rights

Rheumatic Fever No Longer Greatest Threat to Health

BY CARL N. NEUPERT, M. D.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch

When 7-year-old Sally first complained that "her legs hurt," her parents decided that it was only growing pains. But just as they were about to dismiss the complaint, they were sure they checked with the family doctor.

And fortunately for her they did. After making special tests, he diagnosed Sally's condition as rheumatic fever. That was two years ago. Now Sally is completely recovered. And because she escaped permanent heart damage, she can and does lead the active life of any normal child her age.

Sally's case is really not too unusual. While it is true that rheumatic fever still produces long-term crippling illness in childhood and adolescence, the disease is no longer the greatest threat to childhood health.

Last year, for example, rheumatic fever claimed only 14 lives in the state compared to 34 a decade ago. Since 1940 the death rate has dropped from 8.1 to 0.35 per 100,000 population.

One reason for this decline is the use of new drugs in treating the streptococcal infections responsible for rheumatic fever. Another as in Sally's case, is some of the early signs of rheumatic fever.

The child, for example, might be pale and listless or unable to gain weight; he could have a poor appetite, frequent nosebleeds, or pains in the knees and ankles. Although these signs don't always mean rheumatic fever, it's best to check with a doctor and be sure.

This is why Sally is so healthy today. What's more, the same prompt diagnosis, modern drugs, and carefully supervised convalescence are bringing new hope to thousands of others, as well.

Commissioner Has Ambitious Work Plans

Administration Chief Joe Nusbaum Expects Controversy but Feels Job Is Important

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Commissioner of Administration Joe E. Nusbaum, who had to wait two years to win full legislative approval to hold his high and powerful state office, has outlined an ambitious schedule of work.

The immediate objective of his central state government management agency is to work toward "a major consolidation of state agencies," he told Gov. Nelson and the legislature in his annual report just published here.

Nusbaum was named to his top job two years ago by Gov. Nelson, but was then refused confirmation by the state senate. Gov. Nelson kept him in office, and then resubmitted his nomination to the Republican senate this year. The senate voted his confirmation after several additional months of hesitation.

Controversies? The influential Nelson lieutenant acknowledged that he has been involved in some heavy controversies during his brief career in the office, and that there will be more.

"By the very nature of its purposes," his report observed candidly, "this department will always be involved in controversial issues."

"But if a tradition of aggressive, honest effort toward administrative improvement can be established in the early years, the department will gain the respect necessary for it to be effective," he added.

More Efficiency

The general mandate of the legislature in creating the agency in 1959 was to make the state government operate more efficiently and more economically. But the Republicans made its preliminary record a major campaign issue in the 1960 elections, and there is little doubt in capital circles that if the Democrats lose control of the executive office in the elections 1962, Nusbaum and his immediate staff will become casualties of the Republican victory.

Nusbaum appealed for legislative backing in reshaping the form of state government administration.

"Many of the operating problems in state government stem from the present organizational structure with its large number of operating departments," he said, making it clear that his ideal administrative pattern would call for far fewer agencies than the 80-odd now functioning under present law.

Nelson Proposals

(Gov. Nelson said recently that he expects to consult with legislative leaders of both parties during the legislative interim about reorganization proposals he suggested but that the law-makers rejected during their regular session, in the hope that authority for administrative reshuffling may be granted by the legislature at its recessed session in the fall. Leaders of the Republican legislative majorities, however, have indicated that they will be cautious about any legislation to give the governor's office power to make such changes. They are likely to offer an alternative looking to submission of specific changes to the 1963 legislature.)

Nusbaum said a major challenge to his agency is the improvement of routine administrative procedures of most agencies. A businessman's advisory committee, he recalled, last year "found inadequate and outmoded procedures in each functional area it reviewed and found that there was no real effort toward continuous review of procedures."

More Medical Schools Needed for Future Growth

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. laude student who had to waste

A reader, more than a little on an entire year after graduation the muscle about the "rush-rush" before he could get into medical "rush" in doctors' offices, demands school.

I explain why, belligerently that I and she adds, "Please—not the same old tired-out excuses — acute shortage of doctors and not enough time, etc.

"Why not end this lament with more medical schools? Who or what is responsible for the present tors no longer use a buggy and shortage? Who stands to benefit make long rounds of unnecessary from the present state of house calls. Instead they concern semi-retirement. Most start for affairs? I know a summa cum trate most of their work offices or in hospitals. (The house call is not a thing of the past, but if we are to get everything done, too many house calls are a luxury we can't afford in terms of time.)

Cures More Rapid

For another thing, new treatments permit many diseases to be cured more rapidly, pneumonia being an outstanding example. Antibiotics often quickly clear up nasty infections which used to require endless soaking, lancing and worrying. Some laboratory tests now can be done much more rapidly (although today we have generation or two ago. Why not? many more of them to do.)

We know how to do more things. Nurses and trained technicians can do many of the tasks that the doctor once did himself. So those are some ways in which we spread the number of available doctors to best advantage.

Even so, there are mighty few doctors I know who work a 40-hour week. Possibly a few in concen-semi-retirement. Most start for in their the hospital around 7 a.m., and some earlier, especially surgeons. Afternoons are mostly spent in their offices, and it isn't often that one can lock up at 5 o'clock. Some have evening office hours. There are numerous evening meetings. True, many take Wednesday afternoon off, but they work on Saturdays. In addition there are emergency night calls, and the same goes for Sunday. Doctors are busy far beyond 40 hours a week. Or even 50 or 60. We need more doctors; we will need still more as population increases.

"Why not end this lament with more medical schools?" That's easier said than done. Doctors and other health spokesmen have been warning for years that the shortage will become much more severe unless we build more medical schools now.

But the estimated cost of a new school is something like $50,000,000 and legislators don't part easily with such sums. Even if we started tomorrow morning, let's say it would take three years to plan and build a school, organize a staff and start teaching. It would be five more years—total of eight—before the first graduate would be ready to hang out his shingle. That's why action is urgent now.

Who stands to gain by the present state of affairs? Nobody! Who stands to suffer if we don't get busy? All of us.

O'Brien Backed Nelson Program for 2 Reasons

MADISON — Sen. Leo O'Brien, John K. Kyle, a veteran politician the Green Bay Republican who can and a wheelhorse of the old booted the senate GOP regulars Progressive party, into office as and foiled their plan to lay over commissioner of the state department until the fall session Gov. Nelson's ment of securities. Unlike some clearly sought 10-year conservation of the other regulatory agencies program, did so for two reasons. of comparable power and import-First was the personal request of tance, this one is run by a single a Green Bay friend for whom director.

Before Kyle was named, Nelson discussed the hazards of the son of O'Brien's annoyance the Republican office and the probability that his senate leadership decision to with-choice for the department would draw from his committee, at the be watched more closely by the last moment, the volatile anti-dis-political opposition than any other crimination in housing bill which Kyle was also he had kept locked up in his files warned that the man he replaced for months at the direct request would be "second guessing," on the basis of his own considerable, and Kyle's negligible, experience in the securities regulation field.

The Nelson conservation program, which squeaked through the senate by a vote of 17 to 15 to the surprise of the Republican commanders, will stand for a long time as an example of artful is-job development by a political leader.

No one has yet managed a White House and federal patron-criticism of the substance of the age than any man who has head-measure; the criticisms deal in details.

As one practicing politician putting plums for Wisconsin Demo-cratsic loyalists. But his yield has seek an issue for each campaign not been enough for some of the upon which nobody can oppose, party organization cohorts, and hum. For Nelson the conservation that fact accounts for some of the development plan, which will be Anti-Luce feeling and activity.

well underway a year hence, will be a useful tool in his political stumping in 1962, whatever office he decides to seek. The impression continues to grow that Nelson will run for a third term, which only a handful of Wisconsin executives have had.

The most sensitive appointment made thus far by Gov. Nelson put the school office.

Differences Exist In Dreams, Reality

Distinction Could Allow Berlin
Situation to be Settled by U. S.

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — If you read the fine print in Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's pep talk to the West Berliners, you'll notice the distinction being made between dream and reality, but not as bluntly as stated here.

It's the kind of distinction which might make peaceful settlement of the Berlin rumpus a little more possible.

The dream is that the Communist government of East Germany doesn't exist and that divided Germany can be reunited. The reality is that it does exist and that Germany won't be reunited any time soon.

Berliners Complain
When Communists sealed off East Berlin with barbed wire to stop the flood of East German refugees to West Berlin last week, depressed West Berliners complained because the Allies did nothing more than protest.

There could hardly have been direct intervention without war with the Soviet Union.

So President Kennedy sent Johnson over to boost morale and promise American support in protecting West Berlin—but not East Berlin—from communism.

Johnson Talks
Johnson delivered the message. But, while saying nothing at all about active support for the East Germans, he did say this: "In the short run, the barbed wire is there and it will not go away by a wave of the hand. But in the long run this unwise effort will fail."

"Lift your eyes from these barriers and ask yourselves: Who can really believe that history will deny Germany and Berlin their natural unity?"

In other words: The Allies will not interfere in what happens in East Germany, and any unification of the two Germanys must remain a long hope only.

What history does make clear

Pravda Says Johnson Visited Berlin to 'Heat Up Situation'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist party paper Pravda today reprinted a Berlin dispatch declaring U.S. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's mission to the divided city was intended to "heat up the already tense situation in West Berlin."

The writer, correspondent Vladimir Kuznetsov, said it seems that the real issue on Berlin is West Berlin—not East Berlin—a showdown with the Soviet Union, meaning, of course, can the camp.

He said provocative military demonstrations were held in West Berlin after Johnson's arrival and again now commented that the 1,500 American reinforcements who arrived Sunday marched through the city make much of an issue on unification.

Young Hobby Club Collecting, Pressing Flowers Good Pastime for Boy, Girl

BY CAPPY DICK
Collecting and pressing flower petals is a good hobby for a boy or girl.

Select petals from the prettiest flowers that grow in your yard. You will need several petals from petal on the waxed paper covering the right hand page of the book. Select several more petals from the base of the flower and arrange them on the waxed paper in the position in which they grow on the flower (figure 2). When you have them as flat as possible, cover them with the remaining half of the waxed paper and close the book.

Place the book in the bookcase where it will fit snugly between other books, or, if you prefer, simply place a weight on top of it. Do not disturb a page of petals for a long time, although you can place other petals between other pages whenever you have some to add to the collection.

By late this fall the petals will be dried and ready to mount in an album. Cover each petal neatly with transparent tape. This will allow the colors of the petals to be seen.

each kind of flower. Poppies, cosmos and roses are some among many to have represented in your collection.

To press and dry the petals you will need an old book and some sheets of waxed paper. Open the book and spread several sheets of the waxed paper over two pages as in figure 1, creasing the waxed paper where the pages are creased.

When you find a flower with petals that you would like to have in your collection, use a pair of tweezers to pull off a petal at its base. Do this gently. Place the

Lawrence Says
Doesn't Believe
That Russians
Circled Globe
Claims Communists
Might Have Used
Tape Recorder

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
 IN EUROPE—Did the Russians, in their anxiety to achieve a worldwide propaganda victory in the midst of the Berlin crisis, send an automatically operated satellite around the globe with tape recordings aboard and then land a well-rehearsed "cosmonaut" by parachute from a separate flight, and claim to have actually sent a man around the globe?

The evidence with which to answer the foregoing question conclusively either way has not been made available to the public. But, bearing on the subject of automatic space flights, the United States government, through the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has just issued an enlightening and significant statement describing a satellite to be launched this very week from Cape Canaveral Fla. It reads in part as follows:

"The most comprehensive test to date—orbital flight and re-entry on a completely automatic basis—is the next step in Project Mercury.

Satellite Described
 "The spacecraft in this test is similar to the one in which the U.S. Mercury astronauts will fly in orbital flight. Since this is the first orbital flight of a Mercury craft, a mechanical 'crewman' simulator will replace man in the cockpit. The 'crewman' simulator will consume oxygen, expel carbon dioxide and fill the cabin with heat and moisture much as a man would in the course of normal breathing.

On this flight, two 45-minute voice tapes will broadcast pre-planned messages to stations in the worldwide network of tracking stations to check on high frequency and ultra-high-frequency transmissions.

The spacecraft, measuring six feet across its widest diameter and nine feet from the blunt heat shield to the top of its parachute container, will contain all of the complex space-age equipment which makes it possible to fly the complete orbital mission on an automatic basis. In addition to the standard on-board systems through which the pilot can control the vehicle, electronic equipment and sensing devices have been installed to try to duplicate man's judgmental and corrective capacity.

Equipment Listed
 "Other mechanical devices will be on board the MA-4 spacecraft to attempt to reproduce the actions of man. A tape recorder located in the vicinity of what would be the pilot's head will record the noises of flight into space and back to earth. A special color camera will be pointed out one of the portholes to record the view. Another camera will look through the pilot's periscope while a third one records instrument panel readings.

Special instrumentation has been installed in the MA-4 spacecraft to record vibration, accelerations and temperature.

During the flight, information from tracking and ground instrumentation points around the globe will pour into the Goddard Space Flight Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Beltsville, Md., at the rate in some cases of more than 1,000 bits per second. Upon almost instantaneous analysis, the information will be relayed to Cape Canaveral for action.

The orbiting phase of the mission will last approximately 110 minutes and will carry the Mercury craft around the earth at altitudes ranging from 154 statute miles off the West Coast of Australia to 100 miles insertion altitude near Bermuda."

Landing Spot Picked
 The same official statement defines the expected landing place at 200 miles east of Bermuda, in the Atlantic Ocean. Helicopters will be used to recover the "main landing parachute" carrying certain equipment and data.

It would, of course, be feasible simultaneously to send an astronaut into the air separately in a plane flying in the stratosphere, parachute him to a landing, and then tell the world that a man had actually been aboard the satellite itself in the round-the-world flight. It undoubtedly will be possible to put an American astronaut aboard a satellite itself some day and send him around the world many times—where there are today several American satellites still circling the earth after many months of flight. But the United States hasn't been ready to take the risk of a single human life until every test has been made.

The Russians may have taken such a risk, but the "evidence" they have produced thus far is by no means convincing. In fact, several statements made by both Gagarin and Titov about what they saw from orbital flight are not believed at all by a number of scientists in America, France and Britain. Both the Russian and American spokesmen, for example, have seen ploughed fields while in orbit. Maybe they saw them on the way down to earth, but there is no known telescope that could be installed in the spacecraft used from which—at an altitude of nearly 100 miles—one could distinguish a ploughed field on earth.

It was important for the Communists to register a "first" in space at this critical time in world history, and they would, of course, not hesitate to simulate an actual flight in order to gain a propaganda victory.

Army Retreats
After Attack
On Alligator

FT. STEWART, Ga. (AP) — A 6-foot alligator proved too cumbersome for three Army officers from Ft. Stewart.

Capt. H. F. Motley said he and the other officers were driving a truck on the Army reservation last week when they spotted the reptile crawling along the road and "stopped to have a little fun."

"We took a canoe paddle out of the truck and poked it at the alligator," he said. "It snapped the paddle in two. We started back toward the truck. So did the alligator."

"We got another paddle and tried to beat the alligator off but it splintered that paddle, too."

Motley said they climbed into the truck and the alligator then crawled under the vehicle, chewing off the tailpipe and muffler and biting the axle.

At that point, Motley said, the officers decided they were no match for the reptile and drove away quickly.

All of the injured were taken to Mercy Hospital here in the Moore ambulances.

Five in Family Die

Five members of Trempealeau County family were killed Saturday when their pickup truck crashed into the side of a speeding passenger train near Menomonie in Dunn County. Parts of the truck were hurled 100 yards when the vehicle slammed against the northbound Chicago and North Western "400."

Victims of the crash were Ernest A. Yarnall, 39, of Osseo; his wife, Fern, 36, and their sons—William, 9; Jeffery, 8, and Ronald, 5.

Five Survive

The Yarnalls had been visiting relatives in the Menomonie area and were on their way to their farm, 50 miles away. Five other children survive.

Hugo Clarence Hornig, 55, a resident of Summit Hospital near Okauchee in Waukesha County, was killed shortly after 10 p.m. Sunday when he was hit by an automobile as he walked across Highway 16 near the hospital.

Raymon Cortello, 28, a migrant worker from Mexico, died Sunday in a Sturgeon Bay hospital of injuries suffered in a Saturday crash that took the life of Leonel Beltram, 28, another migrant worker. The mishap occurred near Sister Bay. Their car left a highway and struck a tree.

Mrs. Izetta Gile, 64, of Grantsburg, died Sunday in a two-car collision on a town road two miles west of Grantsburg in Burnett County. Seven persons were injured.

Auto Burned

A 52-year-old Sheboygan man, Harold W. Maffert, was killed shortly after 1 a.m. Sunday when his auto left a Sheboygan County road west of Johnsonville and overturned.

John M. Abels, 22, of Freeport, Ill., was killed Saturday when his motorcycle hurtled off Rock County Highway M and smashed against a utility pole near Janesville.

William Mevenden, 19, of rural Birmahwood, was killed early Saturday when his car burst into flames after skidding off the highway near the Marathon-Shawano County line.

Nine Injured

Two persons were killed and nine injured Sunday night in a collision at the intersection of Highway 45 and Paradise Road about one mile south of West Bend.

The victims were Frank Hoffman, 76, of Waukesha and Mrs. Magdalena Gross, 64, Cincinnati, Ohio. They were passengers in a station wagon driven by Frank Cechala of Rt. 1, Waukesha. Cechala and four other passengers were injured.

The second vehicle was driven by Gerald Springob, 23, of Milwaukee. He and three passengers, also from Milwaukee, were injured. All nine were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in West Bend.

posals before the Security Council July 29.

U. S. Likely to Abstain
Informed sources said there was a possibility the United States would vote for the resolution, but many diplomats believed it would abstain. One African delegate said unless the United States supported Tunisia, it could expect little support from the anti-colonialist countries if it should bring the Berlin crisis before the United Nations.

There was some belief the United States abstained on the Security Council vote because it thought then it could get the French to negotiate with the Tunisians. Chief U.S. delegate Adlai E. Stevenson now apparently has abandoned this hope, and Tunisia's backers feel that the United States — which Stevenson described as the "oldest anti-colonial power" — should join in the censure of France even though France is one of the United States' most important European allies.

French Indicate Boycott

The French government has refused to discuss a schedule of withdrawal from the big Bizerte naval and air base, claiming that Tunisia is trying to hold a gun to its head. The French indicated they would boycott the General Assembly session.

The resolution prepared for introduction in the General Assembly says the presence of French forces in Tunisia against Tunisia's will violates the sovereignty of the former French protectorate and endangers international peace. It also calls on the French but he did not rule out the prospect of a summit meeting after "full preparation."

President Kennedy planned to fly to Washington after a cut-short weekend in Hyannis Port, Mass., to welcome Johnson and get his personal report.

A West German government press officer in Bonn Sunday circulated a report that the East German Communists may close the Helmstedt-Berlin highway, the sole route for allied military road traffic. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's chief spokesman in Berlin quickly toned down the report by calling it "merely a rumor."

No Obstacle for Troops

Soviets manning the Helmstedt border checkpoint Sunday showed no inclination to hamper the Berlin-bound convoy of 1,500 men of the 8th Infantry Division. It was the biggest mass movement of American troops to West Berlin since the war.

The Soviets took an identity and head-count—as they have a right to do under Big Four agreements on Berlin—but they seemed as anxious as the Americans to see that the operation went off without a hitch.

Secretary Rusk said in Washington any Communist interference with the physical access to Berlin would "be a very serious matter indeed."

Movers Unhappy

The movers made it clear they were unhappy about their job, and they didn't seem to care whether the police knew it.

"Not me, not me," one of them called as a photographer took a picture through the barbed wire. "Wait until I put this box down and then you can take it."

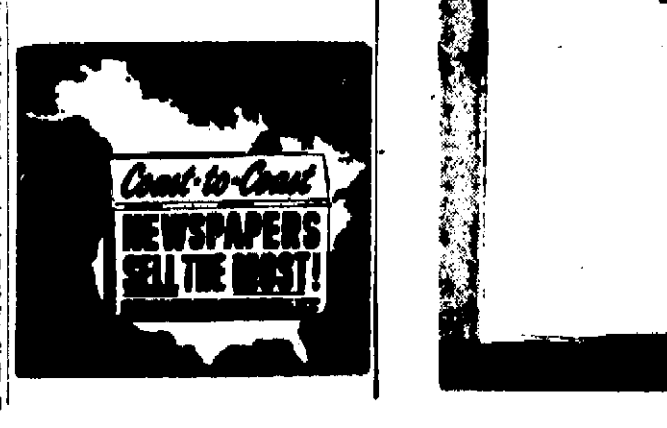

The soldiers cocked their rifles as the photographers moved in. The housewives across the street looked up at the windows of their unfortunate friends. What would happen to them? Nobody knew.

"They'll be moved deeper into the sector, maybe even into the Russian zone," one said with a shudder.

An angry woman shouted "Homebreaker!" at the soldiers. When a Red officer threatened a cameraman, another woman shouted "What insolence!"

Mood Changes As Johnson Visits Berlin

cided to parade a portion of the new force through the downtown streets. Again the Berliners turned out as if by magic, cheering, throwing flowers, waving handkerchiefs and scarves.

The soldiers were dusty and tired from their two-day march from their base in Mannheim but the mood of the Berliners was infectious. It was a gay and heart-warming spectacle.

The popular newspaper BILD used huge black type for its front-page headline today which says in English "Welcome to Berlin, Friends." In English it goes on "You are not guests, you are fellow citizens. Our city is also your city."

New Courage
East Berliners and East Germans on the other side of the bustling communist wall drew new courage for the ordeals they still must face. Their communist rulers obviously were piqued by Johnson's assertion that communism's days are numbered and that the East German regime has been congratulating itself prematurely.

Johnson's visit to Berlin, savagely says the official communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland, "is like a rocket that doesn't go very high."

Referring to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's treaty proposal which touched off the present Berlin crisis, Neues Deutschland concludes:

"Peace will come and Brandt will focus on the civilian vision of Berlin last Sunday."

nationalist government on Formosa after Brandt's personal appeal to President Kennedy is a major victory for the 47-year-old mayor and Social Democratic candidate for chancellor in next month's West German elections.

Inevitably the Berlin crisis is intruding in the election campaign but it is too early to assess its influence. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's seeming passivity has been the source of bitter criticism here in Berlin but the Berliners themselves under Adenauer's leadership have no vote in West German elections.

It's reported that Adenauer wanted to attach himself to Johnson's party which would have caused political tensions here and might have pushed Brandt a little into the background. The admitted the outbreak.

Adenauer to Visit
Adenauer will make his own personal survey of the situation here during a 1-day visit tomorrow. His reception likely will be much cooler than that for Johnson and Clay.

Business Slow at Amerika Haus but Radio Keeps Playing

U. S. Information Agency Busy Getting Truth to East Germans

BY KAYS GARY
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

BERLIN—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has called West Berlin a bone in his throat. Two prongs of that bone that hurt are Amerika Haus and RIAS (Radio in American Sector).

With the closing of the border between East and West Berlin, Amerika Haus activities have been curtailed.

RIAS cannot be quieted so quickly. And it is RIAS which has driven the Soviets hysterical with rage and frustration.

Both Amerika Haus and RIAS carry the message of truth. Both are financed by the U. S. Information Agency.

500,000 Visit
Amerika Haus is visited by more than 500,000 Germans annually and almost half of these have been from East Germany, mostly from East Berlin.

It has a 30,000-volume library, four branch German-and-English language libraries and three book-mobiles.

It has reading rooms with American and West German newspapers—and the West German Dailies are free. East Germans may take them home.

It has a theater where East Germans may see West German and American newsreels five times a day.

600 Study
It has classrooms in which 600 East Berliners have been attending English lessons.

It has discussion groups led by university professors who are tops in their field—from music to literature, philosophy and religion.

The handsome, modern building has just been expanded to accommodate the crowds who have come here daily.

There are concerts presented by both American and German artists and dramatic presentations. There are activities for groups of all ages.

Near East
The building is situated next to the Bahnhof Zoo, the elevated railroad station where visitors from the East arrive.

Defense Workers At Milwaukee Won't Strike

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers Union members working on missile guidance systems at General Motors Corp.'s Milwaukee A-C Spark Plug plant voted unanimously Sunday not to conduct a strike vote.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice president, said the decision by Local 438 came after the international union and local leadership had recommended the local should neither conduct a strike vote nor participate in a national strike.

Woodcock said the recommendation was "made in the belief there should be uninterrupted production of these vital defense systems."

The WISCONSINITE MAGAZINE

It's new, it's monthly. For Sept.:

- The military in Wisconsin
  - Our $88,000,000 schoolhouse
  - Geography of Devils Lake
  - Fall fishing is best
- and other stories, plus pictures. Single copy: 25c. One year: $3.00. Box 168, Neenah, Wis.

But now there are to be no visitors.

Last week the reading room for East Berliners was filled with people poring over newspapers and magazines.

"It is the only place," several explained, "where we can find out the truth of what is taking place."

But when I asked to take a picture, several in the reading room hurried out. Others were given time to turn their backs or cover their faces.

Business Slows
But if business now has slowed at Amerika Haus it can only have hit a more rapid pace at RIAS where Director Robert Lochner, his assistant Harold Wright and six other Americans work with 470 Germans who run the mammoth radio station.

The station is constantly attacked by every Soviet Zone newspaper, radio and television station, by East German Communist Chief Walter Ulbricht and Khrushchev himself.

It is the most popular radio station in Germany.

Public opinion polls, mail and questioning of refugees produce a conservative estimate that it has 6 million daily listeners in the Soviet Zone alone.

It has caused the Soviet to utilize 600 transmitters in a futile effort to jam its voice. RIAS beats the jamming with two complete and separate programs during peak hours using several frequencies on all wave bands with a power which is six times that of a clear channel station in the United States.

Open 24 Hours
It operates 24 hours a day. There are 25 daily newscasts. There are also children's programs, popular, jazz and classical music with live talent, political commentaries, drama and comedy.

Catholic, Protestant and Jewish religious services are broadcast. West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt has a weekly program titled "Where the Shoe Pinches."

Religious leaders and scholars throughout Germany participate in panel discussions.

A recent one asked the question: "Is a citizen's first duty to church or state?"

RIAS gathers its news by monitoring 300 radio stations throughout the world, from newspapers of East and West Germany from correspondents and two wire services.

Its operating principle: "Opinions are free but facts are sacred."

It presents both, clearly labeled and contrasted with the communist line.

The RIAS bone has been particularly sharp in Khrushchev's

Reds Charge That U. S. Troops Turn Berlin Into 'Police Camp'

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda said today West Berlin has been turned into a military police camp with the addition of 1,500 U.S. troop reinforcements.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper's correspondent in West Berlin also reported the arrival there of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and said: "The West Berlin authorities have, in connection with Johnson's arrival, raised a witches' warlike sab-bath."

"They have used his arrival as a pretext to inflate a military psychosis still further in the city."

throat in the communist effort to force farmers into collectives. RIAS repeatedly told its listeners that they did not have to join collectives and that their own constitution gave them this protection.

It reminds them of constitutional rights under their own laws at every turn and tells them what is happening in the free and communist world hour by hour.

RIAS has a specialist for every problem.

A striking example of its service appeared when a news item from East Germany told of party pressures on collective dairies for failing to produce enough milk. Penalties were promised unless production increased.

The dairymen's excuse was that they weren't getting sufficient feed for the cattle.

The party's response was that the dairymen lacked only dedication and enthusiasm presumably necessary to have socialistically contented cows.

Research Done
The RIAS farm editor did research to help the farmers in their dilemma. He advised them of a number of wild-growing legumes which could be utilized as feed and increase milk production.

Programs for the housewife also offer recipes for relieving a monotonous diet and for making the least go farthest in nutrition.

Such programs drove the communist chiefs wild with rage.

They have been helpless to stop the voice and they've tried everything in the book. Now it is a crime punishable by imprisonment to listen to RIAS. The East Germans still listen.

Here is a sample of hundreds of letters received daily from the Soviet Zone:

'Beam of Hope'

"Your broadcasts are a beam of hope and confidence which sustain us in this big prison. Don't ever stop."

The communist press has labeled RIAS "an espionage service which uses entertainment and cultural programs as a guise to lull the stupid into a belief it is something else."

It has labeled RIAS as "a paid stinking news ulcer owned by criminal warmongers and foreign monopoly capitalists . . . whose stupid shouting lies will be blown apart and the pitiful remnants of their brains some day swept up from the streets of Berlin into the refuse dumps of history."

It has branded Uncle Tobias, hero of a children's program, as a sexual pervert and the "Fairy-Tale Lady" as a drunken trollop.

Other Soviet press vituperation against RIAS has had such comment as:

"RIAS is a paid instrument of warmongers and the stupidest by now should know this and consign it to hell . . ."

"It is only a recruiter of spies and agents of sabotage . . . using lies and subversion in an effort to halt the inevitable victory of communism."

Party chieftains have even announced that the RIAS "Top Tunes of the Week" program is actually a code device to instruct enemy agents by the sequence in which tunes are played.

But the RIAS mail keeps pouring in.

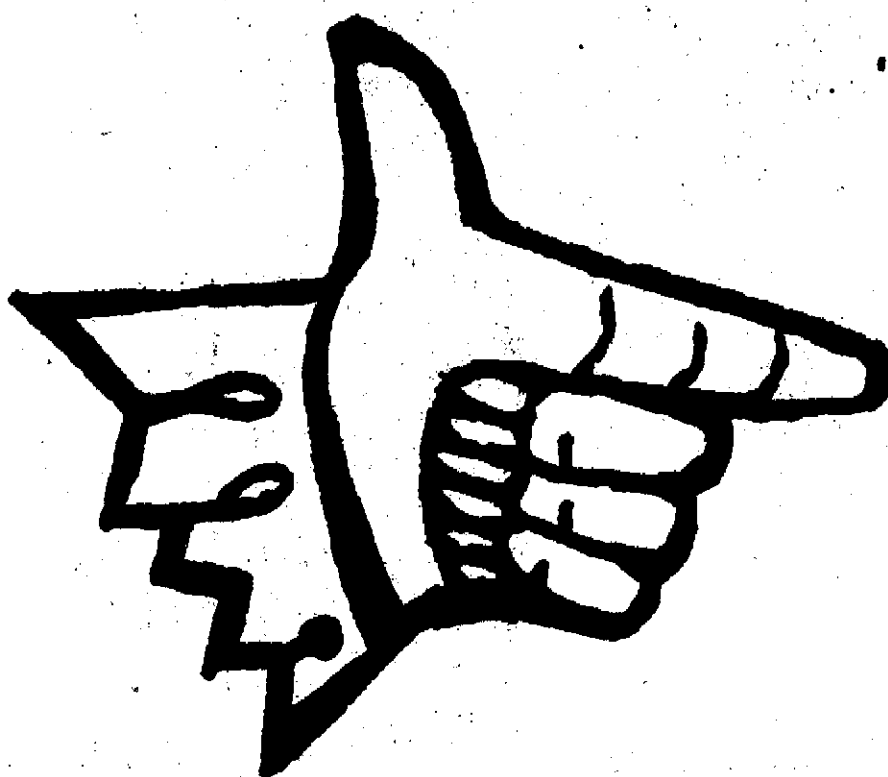

It has a signal which sounds several times daily. It's called "The Freedom Bell."

And millions will continue to listen despite a sealed frontier.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves ran out of luck—and relief pitching—at the same time. The result was an end to their 10-game winning streak. The surging Braves won their 10th straight on a homestand by defeating the Phils 5-2 behind Warren Spahn, but then dropped a 7-4 decision in the nightcap of a doubleheader Sunday before a crowd of 24,637 at County Stadium.

Green Bay's Versatility Pleases Vince Successful Switch To the Air Proved Decisive

BY ART DALEY Post-Crescent Staff Writer GREEN BAY — St. Louis left-overs: The midnight buffet tasted good after the Packers beat the Cardinals in St. Louis Friday night. And Coach Vince Lombardi was delighted with many phases of the 31-10 victory — chiefly the Bays' successful switch to the air when the ground game hit a snag.

"We want to be a versatile team — be able to adjust to new situations," he explained, adding with emphasis: "Our big objective this year is to be that kind of a team on offense and defense."

Held to 94 yards rushing, the Packers hauled out the air force and completed 15 of 26 passes for 137 yards, and completed 15 of 25 passes for 257 yards. The aerials set up all three touchdowns and the field goal. Double Wing Stopped Defensive versatility? The Packers were facing the intricate double-winged T for the first time in a year and boiled the novel system down to practically nothing.

In the first half, with the Bays' regular offensive line (Bill Quinn, Dan Hanner, Hank Jordan and Willie Davis) in operation, the Cards were limited to 110 yards passing and running and only six completions in 19 passes. Sophomore George Izo handled the Card attack in the first half and rookie Charley Johnson in the second.

And that brings up a point. The Packers, with victories over the Cowboys and Cardinals under their belt, will face a more advanced quarterback (Bill Wade) and team (the Bears) in the annual Shrine game in Milwaukee next Sunday night. The Packer offense vs. St. Louis was subjected to something

The Braves made a late bid to pull out the second game, but couldn't offset an eighth inning rally by the Phils, who snapped a 23-game losing streak, a modern major league record and only one defeat from the all-time mark set in 1899 by Cleveland's National League club. Despite the split, the fourth place Braves picked up a half game on league-leading Cincinnati, which bowed to St. Louis 11-8. The Braves are eight games off the pace, five behind Los Angeles and one behind the third place Giants.

Gives 5 Hits Spahn, the 40-year-old great surrendered only five hits in winning his 14th game of the season and No. 302 of his career. The southpaw veteran, who has lost 12, lost a shutout on a walk and Bobby Malkmus' fifth homer in the second.

The Braves tied the game in the fourth on an infield hit by Hank Aaron, a walk and a double by Frank Thomas, and then clinched Spahn's fifth straight victory in a wild fifth. With two out in the fifth, Eddie Mathews hit his 25th homer, a shot into the bleachers in left. Aaron then singled, went to second on a passed ball and advanced as the fourth ball to Joe Adcock was a wild pitch. Thomas then hit a pop behind the mound. Pitcher Chris Short dropped the ball for an error as Aaron scored. Adcock went to third on a wild pitch and scored on another infield error.

Spahn, now 7-1 since the break for the All-Star game, appeared in his 600th major league game, a feat accomplished by only 19 other pitchers in baseball history. The Braves jumped into a 1-9 lead in the nightcap as Roy McMillan's wind-blown fly to left hit the foul pole for his fifth homer. The Phils then got starter Carl Willey for two runs in the fourth on a homer by Wes Covington, a double and a single.

The Phillies added another run in the sixth before Willey retired for a pinchhitter. The Braves scored in the seventh on singles by Aaron and Adcock and a system down to practically nothing. Rookie Bob Hendley, who relieved Willey, got by the seventh, but then ran into trouble. Don Demeter beat out a hit to third to start the eighth and then went to second on a pinch single by Ken Walters, who had failed in two attempts to sacrifice. Hendley got the next man on a forced-out at second, but walked the bases full, bringing Don Nottebart from the bullpen.

Malkmus then singled to right for one run and pitcher John Buzhardt drove in another on a suicide squeeze bunt which would have hit him if he hadn't connected. A two-run single by Tony Taylor followed for two runs. The Braves scored once in the eighth, on a walk, an infield out and the third of Lee Maye's three singles. Their final tally

Menasha Trims Fondy To Capture District Semi-Pro Crown

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY Post-Crescent Staff Writer MENASHA — Menasha started strong and finished almost as well to trim Fond du Lac, 11-5, for championship honors in the North-eastern Wisconsin district semi-pro tournament here Sunday. Freedom picked up the third place award with a 9-7 decision over Gillett. Vern Romanesko's 2-run homer in the eighth broke a 7-all knot.

The Macs reached the finals with a 20-2 walloping of Gillett Saturday afternoon. Fond du Lac toppled Freedom, 7-2, in the other semi-final tussle. The Twin Cities, in spearing their first tournament crown since 1956, built up an 8-0 lead before Fondy broke into the run column. They saw their advantage dip to 8-5 after 7 1/2 frames, but closed with a trio in the last of the eighth.

Meyer Goes Route Although hampered by a sore arm, Jim Meyer went the distance for the Macs. He pitched hitless ball for the first five innings and allowed eight in the last four. The right-hander struck out five and walked four. His teammates erred three times, including two in Fond du Lac's 3-run sixth. Fritz Heiss and Jack Konetzke each drove in two runs with singles in the Macs' 4-run first and second. Darold Eggert accounted for a 4th homer in the double elimination tournament. If Beloit wins tonight, a deciding game will be played Tuesday.

The 52-year-old O'Brien became the first "outside" champion in Appleton city tournament annals by prevailing, 3 up and 1 to play, over a determined John Lindberg in the double-round finals played on the Reid Municipal course. Appleton Mayor Clarence Mitchell has called a civic meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the council chambers, City Hall, to discuss the Fox Cities Foxes baseball program.

The meeting, open to all persons interested in professional baseball, will be concluded in time to permit fans to attend the Foxes-Cedar Rapids booster game at Goodland Field.

The purpose of the meeting is to determine what can be done to stimulate attendance for the Foxes' final two home stands and to try to help the club finish "in the black" for 1961 operations.

Vineyard Pitches 4-Hit Victory After Fox Cities Takes Suspended Tilt; Locker Hurls Shutout

The Fox Cities Foxes chalked up two victories in three decisions at Lincoln Sunday as they won, 4-2, in the afternoon and lost 5-0 in the evening. The Foxes also added the finishing touches to a suspended game, winning by a score of 7-0.

The Foxes, who stretched their third-place margin over Lincoln to 1 1/2 games by winning three out of five on the marathon weekend, return home tonight to face Cedar Rapids. Game-time at Goodland Field is 8 p.m.

Jim Dunlap finished the suspended contest Sunday in relief of Dave McNally, who was the pitcher of record when the game was suspended at Goodland Field due to power failure Aug. 10. Dunlap allowed just one hit in the final two frames and the Foxes added one more run to their total, in the sixth, on two errors and a double by Jim Caldwell.

Dave Vineyard followed the suspended game with a 4-hitter. Two Lincoln hurlers, Bob Hamet and Fritz Ackley, also allowed four hits but Vineyard scattered his blows more effectively.

The lanky West Virginian had a shutout until the eighth when

Dunlap Wins On Liggett's Grand Slam

LINCOLN, Neb.—Home runs settled a marathon doubleheader between Lincoln and Fox Cities Saturday night—but they were a long way apart. Jim Liggett hit a grand-slam homer off Fritz Ackley in the first inning of the 7-inning opener to clinch a 5-2 victory for Fox Cities.

Ruby Wins 200-Miler at State Fair Park

Eddie Sachs Hospitalized After Crash

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Lloyd Ruby, a 33-year-old Texan, posted a speed record and cut into a record purse in winning the 200-mile big car race at the Wisconsin State Fair Sunday.

Just as Ruby was taking the checkered flag, cars driven by two veteran drivers collided coming out of the north turn. Jim Hurtubise, of Lennox, Calif., said he lost control as he came out of the turn. His spinning car crashed into the one driven by Eddie Sachs of Coopersburg, Pa. Sachs was forced into the wall and a wheel was knocked off his car. Hurtubise's car stopped inches from the wall.

"Lucky Fellow" Hurtubise was not hurt but Sachs suffered possible fractured ribs and was taken to a hospital for treatment. "I was a pretty lucky fellow," he said.

After Ruby, of Wichita Falls, zoomed over the finish line with a record average speed of 101.7 miles per hour, and was followed three seconds later by Len Sutton of Portland, Ore., last year's winner, the remainder of the race was called off because of wreckage on the track.

A crowd of 29,866 contributed a purse of $40,825. Ruby's share was $9,658. Sutton pocketed $4,622. Third-place money of $3,331 went to A. J. Foyst, of Houston, Tex., the winner of the Indianapolis 500.

Rounding out the first 10 were: 4, Dick Rathman, Roselle, Ill., $2,600. 5, Sachs, $2,118. 6, A. J. Shepherd, Gardina, Calif., $1,740. 7, Hurtubise, $2,874. 8, Johnny Boyd, Fresno, Calif., $1,351. 9, Bob Christie, Grants Pass, Ore., $1,247. 10, Short Templeman, Seattle, $1,144.

Yankees, Tigers Both Notch Double Wins Maris, Mantle Blast 1 Homer Apiece

BY JOE REICHLER The home run heroics of Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle and the almost monotonous winning ways of the New York Yankees have overshadowed the courageous effort of the Detroit Tigers and the spectacular hitting of their new star first baseman Norm Cash. Maris clouted his 49th home run Sunday and Mantle walloped No. 46 as the M and M boys kept 10 and 8 games, respectively, ahead of Babe Ruth's record 60-homer pace of 1927. The Yankees went on to sweep a doubleheader from Cleveland 6-0 and 5-2 to protect their three-game bulge over Detroit.

Undismayed, the Tigers took a doubleheader from Boston 6-1 and 7-6. They were the Tigers' sixth and seventh victories in the last 10 games. Has 364 Mark Red Sox pitchers were able to retire Cash only once as he rapped three hits in each game. # U. S. Wins Davis Cup American Zone Finals

Bartzen Says Damp Court Aided Him In Deciding Match

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A U.S. team has won the Davis Cup tennis American zone finals from Mexico 3-2 for the second year in a row, and the man who won the deciding match said the weather helped him do it.

The third day's play was delayed for an hour and a half Sunday while gasoline was splashed on the Cleveland Skating Club's courts and set afire to dry the rain-soaked clay.

Then Chuck McKinley of St. Louis blasted his way past Mexico's No. 1 man, 33-year-old Mario Llamas, 6-4, 7-5, 10-8, to tie the match at 2-2. Bernard (Tut) Bartzen, another 33-year-old and national clay courts champion, followed with a 7-3, 6-3, 7-5 triumph over Mexico's Rafael Osuna, 22.

"With the courts a little damp, it worked in my favor," said Bartzen, "because Osuna likes to play the net and fire the ball past you. But he wasn't able to do it because the ball was heavier and not taking off as fast as it will on a dry court, like he had last Friday when he beat Chuck."

McKinley had lost three straight sets to Osuna by 6-3 scores Friday when Bartzen defeated Llamas 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. The Mexicans went ahead 2-1 Saturday when Osuna and Antonio Palafox beat McKinley and Dennis Ralston in the doubles, 9-7, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

U.S. team captain Dave Freed called McKinley's overhead smashes to Llamas' backhand "great" and described the hustling 30-year-old's forehand cross-court shot as "the toughest you'll see."

Francisco (Pancho) Contreras, Mexico's coach, said his men played their best "but we just weren't good enough."

The U.S. team will meet India in the interzone semifinal matches at a time and place still to be announced.

"new" of the Cards' stunting of some of their defensive linemen and blitzing by the linebackers. "Some of those things we've hardly touched on this year yet," Vince pointed out later.

Keeps Close Eye Tom Bettis, the injured linebacker who worked on the sidelines, kept a close eye on the Card linebackers. "They shot in three linebackers some times — to get at Bart or our running by throwing off our blocking pattern."

Incidentally, Bettis, who hopes to be ready before the league opener, said he "didn't like being on the bench. I'd rather play. Our linebackers did a good job. On Symank's interception they forced the quarterback to throw quicker. He threw it too high and Symank got it."

Packer passers went through without an interception. They tried 26 passes and completed 15. The Cards attempted 28 and had three of them intercepted. Incidentally, the Cards had 52 plays (rushes and passes) against the Packers' 56.

Gary Knafele found the contest to be quite a fight. He came across once and bumped Jimmy Hill on a pass play and the unhappy Hill made like a fist-fighter and caught Gary with a sharp right to the mouth. Hill's fist was well aimed, passing beneath Gary's face guard. Hill was promptly thrown out; the Packers received a 15-yard advance; the Packers got close enough for a field goal; and Knafele chuckled.

Dr. George McGuire, cubbing for team Dr. Jim Nellen, closed up Knafele's lip with a stitch.

The Packers arrived back from St. Louis in their chartered plane at 1 p.m. Saturday. It was a free weekend for the players and the married athletes who had their families here were permitted to go home. The coaches put in some work Sunday, viewing the films and getting ready for the next game.

Laughter Returns to Phils' Clubhouse After 7-4 Victory

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The griping, bitter drama is ended. The Philadelphia Phillies can flash victory smiles once again.

Laughter and joking returned to the Philadelphia clubhouse Sunday as the lowly Phils snapped modern baseball's longest losing streak—23 games — by defeating Milwaukee 7-4 in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

"I'm glad to get that monkey off my back," said Manager Gene Mauch, who said his first post-game smile in three weeks. "This really takes a load off our shoulders," said shortstop Bobby Malkmus, whose single in a four-run eighth inning rally helped the Phils to their 31st victory of the year.

"He Took Blame" "Believe me, we really wanted to break out for Mauch," Malkmus said. "He took all the blame himself—never took it out on us. He knew we were in there trying all the time."

Malkmus appeared to sum up the feelings of his teammates. There was no wild celebrating in the dressing quarters which resembled a morgue as the streak rolled on. But visitors and photographers were welcome again.

The tension had lifted and everyone was relaxed. "I wonder if this will get us into the Hall of Fame now," one player said wryly from the rear. "Probably just into the Hall of Shame," Mauch cracked with a glance over his shoulder.

Mauch praised righthander John Buzhardt, who stopped the Braves, and then paid tribute to the entire club.

"The kid probably felt like he was pitching in the seventh game of the World Series because of all the pressure on us," the 35-year-old Philadelphia field boss said.

Computers Cut Down on Data Boss Knows

Electronic Brains
Save Time While Boosting Profits

BY SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A big New York department store is using an electronic brain to cut down on data for the boss. It tells him not how all items are moving each day, but what merchandise is moving faster than expected and what is selling more slowly than it should. That's what he really needs to know to manage stocks and promotions.

A Dayton, Ohio, doctor uses a computer service center to prepare automatically statement accounts for patients along with records for himself of all services performed, all fees, payments made, and a list of patients to be seen again next month.

Schools in Cleveland, San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Boston get from service centers a quick rundown on student registration, course scheduling, grade reporting, credit accumulation and student records. It leaves more time for teaching.

Illinois County Taxpayers of an Illinois county have, thanks to an independent computer service center, itemized statements of their tax bills involving as many as 304 different taxing bodies. The statements show which ones a taxpayer contributes to and just how much of his total bill went for schools, water supply, roads, etc.

A Minneapolis company will get in 11 minutes a monthly production control computation, a process that formerly took three weeks.

These are some of the things the centers with their big machines point to when boasting they can profitably serve small as well as big enterprises.

Run by Makers

Many service centers are run by the makers of the electronic wonders. Some are independent, buying or leasing their machines from the big makers. Most offer both the use of the machines and of programmers. These take the raw material—the facts and figures—from a company and turn it into data the computers can handle to produce the desired information.

One of the independents, Statistical Tabulating Corp., Chicago, with 14 centers from New York to Los Angeles, reports that a medium-sized insurance company which had expected to take 60 days to prepare a rate schedule for a new policy turned the problem over to STC programmers who did the job from scratch in 10 days.

STC says a manufacturer with five plants was able to cut transportation costs by $20,000 a year when a computer took over. An investment counseling firm bought four hours of computer time and three hours of programming service to prepare client status reports. It thereby eliminated 25 hours of sorting, 15 hours of collating, 8 hours of computing, 5 hours of reproducing and 20 hours of clerical work.

Near or Far

Problems don't have to be left to the nearest center.

International Business Machines, with centers across the country, says it has sent 15,000 characters a second between widely spaced computers by using telephone cable, a Bell System microwave radio network, and IBM magnetic tape transmission units.

The big mechanical brains can work on a business problem here, check it with data elsewhere and tell management about it somewhere else.

Trees Have Increased In Massachusetts

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Nine-year-old Steven Laton of Des Moines had heard his father say several times that it was time to plant the family garden. But the boy wasn't home when the planting was done.

The next day, Steve, wanting to be helpful, got up early and plowed the entire garden. The family now calls it the "tossed salad garden".

Farewell Summer Show Creates Jittery Performers

BY JEAN OTTO
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Sssshhhhh! There's lots of mothers and fathers out there. They'll hear you!" Thus the director of "The Red Shoes" tried to quiet the backstage hub bub at the Appleton Recreation Department's Farewell Summer program Wednesday evening at Jefferson School auditorium. The Crescendo of voices diminished for a moment, then rose again in separate units as small groups defined their nervousness.

A miniature grandma with deep furrows on her brow and the dark shadows of age around her eyes looked in a mirror and moaned, "Oh, they won't know me. My mother and dad will think I'm somebody else."

Mother's Grandma
"Sure," giggled her friend. "They'll think you're their grandma."

The grandma began to laugh. "That's funny. I'm not my own grandma. I'm my mother's!"

"For Pete's sake," muttered a tall girl wearing a plaid shirt and blue jeans, "how do I get this hat on so I look like a boy?" She struggled with wispy ends of hair that persisted in showing from under the man's cap.

A blond girl in a red dress gave up the struggle and turned to a fellow actor. "Will you button my dress?" she asked. "My fingers won't stop shaking."

An old lady with a wide-brimmed black hat stared vacantly ahead, fingering a huge piece of bubble gum.

Again, "Sssshhhhh."

Will Forget Lines
A pink-cheeked red-head stood by herself with a piece of paper, reading silently, then squinted her eyes and silently mouthed the printed words. "I'll forget," she sighed. "I just know I will."

Chorus members, the first to appear in the show, stood just off-stage, their faces scrubbed and shining, their white blouses neat and unwrinkled. They chewed on their fingers and breathed in short jerky gasps. A man came through the room and a flash bulb and film made a record of their anxiety. "Oooh" went up from a half dozen throats. "We're going to have our pictures in the paper. Does my hair look all right?"

Audience Waits
Outside, cotton-frocked mamas and shirt-sleeved dads seated themselves comfortably away from mosquitoes and distracting park sounds and prepared to watch their youngsters perform. Younger brothers and sisters complained aloud that they were ready to watch and listen, why didn't the show start?

And the lights lowered, and music was heard. This was it!

Keeping One's Crown on straight is a full time job for any proper monarch, and the one who played that role in the Recreation Department's presentation of "The Red Shoes" felt the full weight of her responsibility. The Fairy Queen, Fawn Mann, sat on the floor before the show and endeavored to keep the symbol of her regality at the correct angle. At left, the executioner, Eileen Mauthe, prepares to chop off the feet of the little girl, Karen, who put on red shoes to go to church, and found herself unable to stop dancing. Below, Karen, played by Donna Mader, listens in as gossipy neighbors inform grandmother, Marcie Abramson, that Karen has fooled her and bought red shoes instead of black. Neighbors are Gail Smarzinski, Becky LeMay, Peggy Brum and Joannie Sommers. The play was directed by Roberta Krueger.

The Youngsters who sang in the Appleton Recreation Department Chorus stood behind the scenes before the performance and had the usual pre-show jitters. The group sang folk songs around a campfire during the Recreation Department's first indoor show. Donna Long was chorus director. At right, two members of the tumbling act, directed by Sandra Reim, demonstrate their skill as Peggy Hearden flips partner Darlene Laun.

Ann's Pet Had Talent, Too: Consuming Expensive Meats

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR READERS: This is a sive meat. Here are some samples of the dark-eyed, lovable little cocker, most astonishing mail I have seen spaniel on the street—don't kick him. It may be Eddie Fisher.

Ever since I printed the letter from the woman who claimed her dog sings along with Mitch I have received hundreds of letters from readers who insist that their dog has been singing for years, and they never thought a thing about it. It makes me wonder about the boxer we had a few years ago. He didn't sing a note—just sat

From Boston: "So her dog sings along with Mitch, does he? Big deal. Our rat terrier gave up popular music when he was six months old. When the kids play rock and roll Hercules barks and whines until they turn it off. Leonard Bernstein is his favorite."

From Flint, Michigan: "Our toy poodle not only sings but she dances. My wife had a pair of ballet slippers made for Baby and whenever she hears music she wants to dance to. Baby goes to her basket, gets the ballet slippers and brings them to us."

From Calgary, Alberta: "Our dog has been singing since he was a puppy. Two years ago he began to harmonize with radio vocalists. Dean Martin is the one he does best with."

From Lexington, Ky.: "My Airedale refuses to go to bed at night until we have said our prayers. She folds her paws, puts her head down and stays in that position until after I have said Amen."

From Chicago: "I was surprised that the dog doesn't actually sing. He merely registers his discom-

Easy-To-Scheme Rug Pattern

To some long-time devotees of red that warm the wood tones, plain-colored rugs and carpet, and suit the informal room style, more than one color on the floor seems pretty adventurous. Pattern gay Early American pattern. Add effective flashing touches with accessories.

Mrs. W. N. "I prefer cafe curtains for our small, very informal house, but have added floor-length draperies to them for the living room because one side of it is so close to the house next door. We still haven't solved the problem in the dining room, one wall of which is on the same side of the house. I wouldn't like long draperies for this room but the windows seem too small for sill-length draw draperies. What do you suggest?"

Since the windows are small, the cafe curtains are probably inadequate protection from the outside world because they begin near the centers of the windows. Raise the rods to height just above the head of the tallest member of the family and lengthen the curtains or make longer new ones.

Use Imagination to End Child's Boredom

BY ANGELO PATRI
Now that most of the summer is over, the children may be bored and restless with all those hours of leisure. It may be worthwhile to check on the toy chest. An inexpensive addition will make almost no dent in the parents' pocketbook, but it can perk up those last vacation days for the child.
What to buy depends on where the toys are to be used and under what conditions. For an automobile trip of any distance the best toys are picture books, a favorite story book, dolls and puzzles. These should be used with discretion because a moving car does not allow eyes to focus too long with comfort. Counting things, such as horses, cows and cars of a certain color, can be made into an entertaining game.
Plan Gift Ahead
A visit to a friend's house requires toys that can be shared with the child-host. Often there is trouble when the visitor helps himself to his host's pet toy, and the visitor's toy can bridge things over nicely. Too, it can be a gift

Removing Dog Odor From House

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
NEA SHELLS ODOR
Q: We bought some large conch shells back from Bermuda on a recent trip there. They have a strong, obnoxious odor; ordinary washing does no good. Can you suggest a way to deodorize the shells?
A: It is possible that the inside parts of the shells still retain pieces of the former occupants. Poke inside with a wire to note if you strike anything soft; if so, loosen and remove it with the wire. Then pour a strong disinfectant inside the shell to clean things up. I usually let weather outdoors a few months. If placed near an ant hill, anything still inside will be cleaned out in short order.
REMOVING WAX
Q: Wax has caked in the carving on an old chest. How can the wax be removed?
A: Wipe with fine steel wool and turpentine or dab with a stiff brush wet with turpentine. If wax too caked, or carving too deep for these treatments, put a sharpened 4-inch length of drill, in your ¼-inch electric drill, and carefully "brush" the wax out with this wooden drill bit.
BLACK MARKS
Q: I have good hardwood floors in the bedrooms. They need re-waxing. But, first, how can I remove black marks on the floors from the black casters under my furniture?
A: One of the new floor-cleaning compounds (available at many supermarkets) may do the trick; worth trying. If unsuccessful, try fine steel wooling of the black marks, down to the bare wood; if the marks are just in the surface finish, this will be sufficient. Otherwise, apply commercial wood bleach, or a hot, saturated oxalic acid (a poison) solution to the blackened areas and allow to remain overnight; then rinse with clear water to remove all trace of the bleach and allow to dry.
Sand smooth and wipe off any dust. Then, with small brush, apply several coats (allow ample time between for thorough drying) of shellac, or varnish, to match rest of floor surface. To prevent future discolorations, wrap layer of plastic electrician's tape or clear, adhesive-backed cellophane tape around the rim of casters wheels.
CHAIRS COMING APART
Q: I have a couple of dining room chairs that are coming apart. How can I re-glue them?
A: Cement-type preparation is available in a plastic container at many housewares and hardware dealers, specifically for loose furniture joints; squirted into faulty joint, it causes wood to swell, making tight closure again.
Or take chair apart, clean out old glue and re-glue, using good quality of liquid glue; coat both parts of the joint, returning parts to position and bind tightly together with heavy cord or furniture clamps to hold in place until the glue has hardened? Wetting the cord will bind more tightly as the cord will shrink as it dries.
For joints not fitting tightly, place a piece of nylon stocking over the hole so that the fabric will also be crowded into the joint when fitting the pieces together. Trim off protruding excess with a razor blade.
PEELING CALCIMINE
Q: We recently calcimined a small hall ceiling and it began to peel and crack very quickly. What is the cause? There are no leaks and we washed the ceiling first before applying the new coating.
A: Cracking and peeling are often caused by failure to remove all of the old calcimine first; or a very thick coat will also crack and peel.

Tennis Stars Defend 'Femininity' of Sport

BY BILL JAURE
Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — Two groups of slightly untanned girls spent a recent morning at the Saddle and Cycle Club here. Obviously neither was within the target range of comments Bud Wilkinson had just made in Washington.

Oklahoma Football Coach Wilkinson, director of President Kennedy's youth physical fitness program, had reported on the sad physical condition of young American girls.

Many U. S. girls, Wilkinson said, "don't have strength enough to hold and swing a tennis racket long enough so they can play tennis."

Pleasingly Active

The American girls on the tennis courts at the Saddle and Cycle Club were pleasingly swinging both rackets and anatomies as to be able to swing one. No, tennis was not 'unfeminine'. Tennis and Wimbledon Cup Matches against England's best players.

Over the club pool, relaxing and waiting their practice turn, the British players read Wilkinson's comments.

Both groups agreed, at least in part, with the report.

They offered a wide number of possible causes: climate, "easy living," inadequate physical education programs in schools and the mistaken notion that girls in sports are "unfeminine."

"We're tougher," said Mrs.

Bea Walker, the non-playing British captain, "and a lot of it is due to our climate. Our weather is so poor that we can't wait for a nice day to play sports. We just go out and play on bad days."

Sprawled in beach chairs nearby, Wimbledon Champ Angela Mortimer and tall Christine Truman offered possible explanations: "Everyone here rides in automobiles... cars, as you call them. At home, we walk on our own feet."

Over in the American camp, playing captain and "veteran" be prepared to play her before you call her "middle-aged." Margaret Osborne Du Pont said she thought Wilkinson's report was "a little exaggerated."

'Nicest Sports'

"A racket's not heavy," she said. "Certainly a teen-ager ought to be able to swing one. No, tennis is not 'unfeminine'. Tennis and swimming are the nicest sports."

Billie Jean Moffitt, one of the best young U. S. players, did not think Wilkinson's report applied to the girls in Long Beach, Calif.

"Girls there are in pretty good shape," said Miss Moffitt. "We have gym classes every day from kindergarten through high school. You have to go to class... and have to swim so many lengths... before you graduate."

"But we don't respect women athletes in this country," said Billie Jean. "Look at track. It's thought of as too masculine. I don't think I'd go out for the track team."

Justina Bricks, left-handed St. Louis teen-ager, thinks that the Wilkinson report is "probably true" in her home town. "We don't have gym every day," she said, "and some girls cut it."

Mary Hardwicke Hare, former British Wimbledon Cupper, dwelt upon the erroneous "unfeminine" tag many American girls attach to sport.

Mrs. Hare called attention to women tennis players on a far court. "Look at them," she said. "They're in great shape, and they're older than I. But I guess they're not 'typical American girls.'"

The costume, created by designer Roxane for Samuel Winston, was made from a gray novelty weave simulating broadtail, topped by a velvet notched collar and accented by a parade of black buttons.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

RETURNING DIAMOND

My fiancé died six months ago. The diamond in my engagement ring had been his maternal grandmother's. Because the stone is of sentimental value to the family, I wonder if I should eventually offer it back to my late fiancé's mother who might be wondering if it will go out of the family forever. If I ever became engaged again, the ring wouldn't have the same significance, but right now it is very important to me.

Davis

Louise Davis Answers:

It is undoubtedly too soon for you to be concerned about this. As time goes on, you will be able to think more clearly. This is too personal a problem for an outsider's opinion or advice. From the sound of your letter, I think that you are a very thoughtful and considerate person and therefore I think that later on you will instinctively feel a moral obligation to offer the return of the diamond.

BREAD DUNKING

Is it considered correct at dinner to soak up the gravy with bread?

Louise Davis Answers:

Yes, but only with a careful and unobtrusive technique. You would break off a small piece from your bread or roll as though you were about to eat it. The piece is dropped onto the plate and eaten with the fork or with the knife and fork if you are eating the continental way.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Arms and the Woman

A lovely's arms are a vital part of her grace and beauty. But sad to say, arms have a tendency to overweight and relaxed muscles as the years go by.

There's a bright side, though. The tendency can be checked. Two very easy exercises do the job.

The first slims the arm. To perform, lie back down on floor, rest fingertips on shoulders, and bring elbows to shoulder level. Raise both elbows off floor and briskly slap upper arms against it. Repeat 25 times, night and morning. Always be sure to keep arms relaxed, so as to avoid bruising.

The second routine firms the muscles. Work standing with feet about 24 inches apart. Cross hands in front of body. Then fling arms diagonally up and back, as far as possible. Repeat 20 times daily, aiming for maximum stretch.

Two measures greatly aid and abet the exercises. A daily brush-scrub brings up circulation, and

Shelnwold Singleton Lead May Backfire

West's opening lead trapped East's jack of hearts. East properly played low, hoping West had led from K-10-6, in which case South would have the singleton ace. It was the right play, but it did no good: South won with the ten of hearts.

Declarer drew four rounds of trumps, cleared the ace and king of hearts out of the way, and led a club to force an entry to dummy. West could take his ace of clubs and one diamond trick, but South easily won the rest.

"Too bad you didn't have the ace of hearts," West commented to his partner as South scored up the game and rubber. And West explained how he would have won five tricks instead of only two if East had held the ace of hearts as well as the queen of diamonds.

Face Reality

It's all very well to live in a dream world and count all the tricks you'd win if pigs had wings, but it's more practical to face reality. When you have 13 points in high cards against a game contract, don't expect your partner to hold an ace. If he raises your suit, he is more likely to have support for your suit and a side singleton than anything as good as an ace.

West should lead diamonds in the hope of shortening South's trump and leads a club. West takes the ace of clubs and leads another diamond. It's hard to see how South can put ten tricks together. West gets his chance to ruff a heart without exposing East's heart holding.

In general, don't lead a singleton when you have four trumps. Lead your long suit and try to run declarer out of trumps.

Daily Question

Dealer, at your left, bids one diamond, partner doubles (for takeout), and the next player passes. You hold: S Q 10 6 H Q 9 7 5 3 D 8 5 2 C K Q. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts. This jump response is invitational, but not forcing. If partner has a husky takeout double, he will bid again and your side will get to game. If he has a light double, he will pass and you will be safe at two hearts.

The Golden Years Basic Values Shape Plan for Retirement

BY THOMAS COLLINS

"I have been somewhat at a loss to understand the attitude of a great many of your correspondents who appear to look upon retirement as a disgrace, a misadventure, or insult to themselves."

"From my earliest memory I have looked forward to retirement. I worked because I had to. I never liked to."

"I would have much preferred roaming about the world, seeing the wonders of nature, visiting with the many peoples of the earth, going and coming as I pleased and when I pleased. Having to do what someone else ordered and having to be at a certain place at a certain time never appealed to me."

Collins

Wife Shared Idea

"My wife shared my ideas in this. And so we both worked, sometimes for others, a long time in our own business, and sometimes for the government. We saved and invested carefully, hoping that we would live long enough and have enough to enable us to quit work before we became too old to enjoy life."

"We made it when I reached 63. We immediately quit work, sold out and have been enjoying ourselves now for eight years."

"We bought a nice home in a modern progressive city in the south-central states, west of the Mississippi River. We invested our money at 6 per cent in first-class, property-secured first mortgages, plus a guaranteed annuity. And we're enjoying ourselves. From the way we feel right now we will continue to do so for many more years."

'What I Want To'

"When I am asked what I do, I reply that I do just what I ever I want to and whenever I please. Who wants to be an ant in an anthill? Or a bee in a beehive? We are free as the birds. And we like it."

There you have it—the philosophy of an unusual man. A title, prestige in the working world, professional status among friends and neighbors and more money don't figure in his thinking. And the man has a point.

More people who are approaching retirement should give five minutes of thinking to the idea that they really weren't put on this earth to sit at a speaker's table. To be a success. To make a lot of money. To be an after-dinner speaker. To acquire a better power mower than the fellow next door. To get into Who's Who. Just what a person is put here for must be decided by one's own beliefs, and one's conscience. But not entirely for the exquisite pleasure of doing what somebody tells you to do in order that the store might be tended, the machine might run, and a profit might be made. It's necessary, yes, if a person likes to eat regularly. But hardly a divine mission.

Job Is All

Most of us sandwich into the make-a-dollar lives we lead a spoonful of charity, a dab of church-going, a pinch of compassion from time to time and the leisure of the five-day week. We regard it as a pretty good recipe of life. The overpowering influence of the job, of course, is the job and what it brings us. It flows over into our evenings, our weekends, our retirement. After 40 or so years of indoctrination in how the job makes the man, we can't shake it.

But the man with the 6 per cent first mortgages shook it, if indeed he ever felt it. So he has whipped the first obstacle to a good retirement. Has he whipped do, I reply that the last one? Is the privilege of doing what

Festival Orchestra to Take Part in Annual Conductors' Sessions

FISH CREEK — Although the Peninsula Music Festival officially ended its 1961 season Sunday, the orchestra will remain in Fish Creek to assist in the fourth annual conductors' symposium at Gibraltar High School this week.

The event is being sponsored by the University of Wisconsin Extension Music Department in conjunction with the third annual convention of the National School Orchestra Association.

Public concerts, all at 8 p.m., will be given tonight, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. The event tonight features violinist Charles Treger and William Rhein, string bass. A series of ensembles will give the program Wednesday; Dr. Thor Johnson will conduct Thursday, and Friday, members of the Festival Orchestra will perform under the batons of selected conductors attending the symposium. The Wednesday and Thursday concerts are free.

you want to do, when you want to do it, any more reason for being than doing the bidding of some boss to make the machines run? There are those who would think not.

Is there any abiding satisfaction in handing nothing back to the world that gives you sun, water and air to breathe? There are those who think not.

Complex Thing

Retirement is a complex thing. It is disengagement from a set of values the job has taught. It is also an adventure into a virgin land where there are no rules to govern what a person might do.

Does one exert the independence that accumulated money gives him? Does one fish? Does he loaf? Or does he pay back?

It is those who pay back—as a general rule—who are buried with a smile on their faces.

Communist Blocking Berlin Was Steeled in Stalingrad

Walter Ulbricht One of Most Formidable Conspiracy Artists

BY GEORGE WELLER
Chicago Daily News Service

MOSCOW — Steeled at Stalingrad, the 68-year-old Communist who now bars the Berlin rout to freedom is one of the most formidable conspiracy artists in the world.

Eighteen years ago Walter Ulbricht stood shoulder deep in a snowy trench outside Stalingrad with portable loudspeaker in his mittened hands.

"Escape, surrender while there still is time," he shouted across to the freezing Germans on the 22d division of Gen. Friedrich Von Paulus.

His high excited tenor, in the nasal twang of his native Thuringia, excited contempt. But when he revealed that the Soviets had impact on the Germans and delivered a surrender ultimatum to von Paulus in his headquarters in the basement of a department store, the Germans could not fail to listen.

The man who is keeping East Germans from finding freedom is well schooled in Communism and its atrocities. The Chicago Daily News correspondent in Russia tells who he is and how he got to his present post.

gia, excited contempt. But when he revealed that the Soviets had impact on the Germans and delivered a surrender ultimatum to von Paulus in his headquarters in the basement of a department store, the Germans could not fail to listen.

When the carnage of the Soviet struggle to stop the hemorrhage of youth and brains through Berlin came in early August. Some units of Ulbricht's "People's Militia" and police, instead of hindering escapees, simply began ignoring the flood at some of the 82 crossing points and letting fugitives through unscanned.

Alarm Signal

This sagging discipline to Ulbricht was an alarm signal far graver than the escapees themselves.

He flew to Moscow, arranged with Khrushchev to raise the Berlin question to a higher, all-Soviet level, where its painful local aspects of military discipline versus hunger-for-freedom would be blacked out. He then was able to confront his only partly wavering military and factory brigades with a "call to international solidarity," artificial but effective.

The building of the barricades followed.

Selfmade Communist

Ulbricht, a carpenter and self-made Communist, like Khrushchev, was early given the party name "Zelle," meaning "cell" for his intense and specialized attention to these smallest units in the worldwide Communist apparatus.

While other ambitious Communists strove to get into the picture and make careers, Ul-bricht, with tautologic thoroughness, chose to understand minutely this smallest but most critical set of bonds that held together secret cells in plants and offices.

He was like a bio-chemist, making germi cultures too tiny for the giants of finance capital to observe, but holding like cancer the germs of their destruction—provided the Soviet army was there to help.

Prepare for Revolt

The Russians under Stalin first thought that cellular penetration into German factories could be achieved best on a secret union-to-union basis, preparing for a revolt against the free republic.

The necessary secret link was established in 1925 by Ulbricht between the Putilov Arms Plant in Leningrad and the Krupp Works in the Ruhr.

Lenin, using armed workers from the Putilov plant, had been able to overthrow the Kerensky republic in 1918. The German Communists hoped that by using Krupp workers they could similarly overwhelm the Weimar government. For the Soviets the Ulbricht deal had a secondary gain: it provided a safe pipeline to the inside of the great Ruhr plants, so they would be quickly informed of German rearmament and any new ideas that were developed.

Sent to Spain

Escaping Germany — the same privilege he now denies the East Germans — Ulbricht was sent by the Comintern to Spain. During the Spanish war he ran the special prison at Albacete for Germans, Austrians and Swiss-Germans who defected from the international brigade.

This prison was renowned for its torture methods. At this point Ulbricht became a regular operative of the GPU, the Soviet security police.

After Franco won in Spain, Ulbricht found himself called back to Moscow for an operation exactly in line with his "cellular" specialty.

Stalin's Purge

Stalin, who already recognized his talents, was engaged in an intense purge, both of his real and fancied enemies at home and of international Communists who opposed his "Russia-first" methods.

Stalin and his Georgian liquidator, Laurenti Beria, were able to handle the Soviet "traitors." It was Ulbricht's job to "atomize the leftists," that is, put the finger on those European Communists who put their national interests first and disobeyed Moscow discipline.

In this process the famous German Communist Heinz Neumann, Stalin's personal secret emissary to China and a major rival to Ulbricht, was arrested and vanished. But there also was some danger that Stalin, as part of his regular policy of eliminating the eliminators, would get rid of Ulbricht at the time of the Nazi-Soviet pact of 1939.

Into Three Bags

Stalin divided the German communists into three bags:

1. The obedient pro-Stalinists, whom he ordered to go back into Germany at the likely risk of arrest and execution, to be ready for sabotage in case Hitler should break the pact and attack Russia.

2. The "National Communists," about a hundred in number, whom he handed over to the Nazis at Brest-Litovsk in 1940. Most of them ended up in the Nazi concentration camp at Ravensbruck.

Ulbricht Responsible

It was Ulbricht who was responsible largely for this sorting.

Hitherto a strict party man, Ulbricht divided his bets neatly during the war. It appeared that the Red army might take over from the party, Ulbricht, whether for love or prudence, married the Secretary to Marshal G. D. Zhukov, the strongest figure of the Red army. He returned to Berlin with Zhukov.

Lotte Ulbricht, his wife, with her superior knowledge of how the Red army works, has been useful in keeping Ulbricht from setting a wrong foot in his relations with the 300,000 Russian troops in Eastern Germany.

Political Target

The Soviets, in return, have been discreet about remaining in the background, leading lives of dutiful dullness behind walls. Ulbricht's political target is recognition by the West. If only "sovereignty" is conceded, he can feel free to flout any promise by Khrushchev to the allies of "free access" to Berlin. Khrushchev then can wash his hands of the act of "sovereignty." But first the four-power agreement on Berlin must be destroyed. That is Ulbricht's problem.

Civil Defense Almost Non-Existent Here

Few People Prepared for Any Attack

BY TOM TORINUS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Civil Defense is to save peoples' lives—to save communities' lives—if the enemy attacks with nuclear explosives.

Civil Defense will mean everything to Fox Cities area people if an attack hits. It will feed them, clothe them, police them, and, in general, mother them.

Civil Defense costs taxpayers a lot, because it may mean a lot to them at any moment.

With these facts in mind, one question becomes extremely important. "How well will it work?" And, since an attack might come at any time, "How well would it work right now?"

The answer? It probably wouldn't work at all.

The Fox Cities area would probably be a mess if nuclear bombs began to fall right now. The people themselves told the Post-Crescent in a telephone survey last week.

No Civil Defense

There isn't really any Civil Defense in the Fox Cities now, the survey reveals. There are Civil Defense organizations. Members of these organizations hold many meetings.

They know essentially what they should do in case of a disaster. But they also know what they can't do. They can't do many things because the people know little and because, in many cases, facilities are few.

Not that Civil Defense organizations in the Fox Cities aren't trying to do something about this. They are. But what can they do when hardly anyone knows who they are? When people show their lack of knowledge and probably their apathy toward them?

Not one of 40 people in the area called by the Post-Crescent knew the signals for warning of an enemy attack. The signals are: ALERT—sustained siren blast for 3-5 minutes—an attack is probable. TAKE COVER—warbling tone—an attack is imminent. Take cover in the nearest available shelter.

Signals Immaterial

But in this area the signals are immaterial. There aren't any sirens in any of the Fox Cities.

People on the streets or those not listening to the radio or TV would not be warned. The CD organization has a telephone warning system, but it alerts only city officials, those in schools and those in factories.

Cream Separator Explodes, Kills Coleman Farmer

Post-Crescent News Service

COLEMAN — A rural Coleman farmer was killed when a cream separator he was operating at Badger State Cheese Co. here blew apart at 7:45 a.m. today.

Mediator Sets Coated Paper, Union Meeting

Second Conference Arranged to End 12-Day-Old Strike

Officials of the strikebound Appleton Coated Paper and United Mine Workers, District 50, will meet with Federal Conciliator Joseph Conley, Green Bay, at 10 a.m. Friday.

This will be the second mediation meeting with Conley since 320 production and maintenance employees walked off their jobs 12 days ago.

Conley announced the second meeting this morning. Company representatives said they have consented to the meeting.

James Brockhaus, president of Local 15014 (UMW), which represents the striking workers, said he had no notification of the meeting as of noon, but "We certainly will meet with them."

Contract negotiations have been deadlocked over wages and fringe benefits.

The company has said it will not grant the union's demands, because they are unreasonable. Union officials contend their demands are not unreasonable.

Limited production is being carried at the plant, it was announced Friday. About 150 office and supervisory personnel are not represented by the union.

No Decision on Weinke Trial

Judge Keller Will Decide on Aug. 28 About Shooting Case

There was no decision in Municipal Court this morning on what will happen next in the first-degree murder case against Leslie J. Weinke, 36-year-old Kaukauna man accused of shooting to death his wife, Shirley, Feb. 8.

A trial date will be set or some other legal action will be taken Aug. 28, Municipal Judge Gustave J. Keller said today.

All the evidence in the first trial was in and the jury was being instructed when Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieghe collapsed and later died. The matter was then adjourned until today.

Defense attorney Allan Cain has said he will claim double jeopardy when the first witness in a second trial takes the stand. He has not yet formally lodged this objection.

The decision to adjourn was made in chambers after special prosecutor Samuel Sigman, Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick Schaefer and the judge talked the matter over. Sigman indicated today he would not agree to a trial held before November.

County Undecided If Fairgrounds Purchase Talks Should Continue

Criticizes Sketchy Accounting of Funds Given to Private Operators

Two committees of the Outagamie County Board wondered this morning whether they should go on trying to buy the county fairgrounds. They were critical of the amounts of money the county has already sunk into the privately-owned fair without knowing just where it is going.

When the executive and agriculture and conservation committees ended their parley at noon, they had not determined what would happen next.

Passed around among the supervisors was a 10-year financial plan of county ownership that would cost taxpayers only about $7,000 a year. County appropriations to the fair, owned by the private Outagamie County Fair Association, have been well above that figure in the past. Last year $10,000 was given to the citizens who own and operate the fair.

'You Never Know'

"You never know how much they have in the bank," said one of those present. "The association reported a $2,000 loss," he said, lamenting the incompleteness of the association's annual financial reports to the county.

'Making Good Return'

An agriculture committee member said he was sure "the so-called shareholders are making a good return on their money" because of their seeming reluctance to sell.

"You can talk to Mr. Citizen, explain the background to him, and he doesn't like it," it was said. "If we don't own the plant, why should we build it up?"

A drafter of the 10-year plan thought $30,000 would be a fair price. The county board made a formal offer of $26,500 at its June meeting, but it was later turned down by the private stockholders.

New Buildings

Three new fair buildings should be erected in the next 10 years, the agriculture committee's 10-year plan suggested, an education building at the cost of $15,000, a poultry barn at $15,000 and a

Pilot in Fatal Crash Failed to See Powerline

Wheels of Plane Caught, Nosing It Down in Field

OSHKOSH — The Civil Aeronautics Board today said the death of Willis "Bud" Cross, Neenah, in a plane crash Feb. 9 was the result of his failure to see a powerline in time to avoid hitting it during landing.

On his final approach, he did not see the powerline across the end of a Town of Vinland field until his wife, a passenger, called his attention to it. His wife, seriously injured, has recovered.

Cross pulled up but not in time to prevent the plane wheels from hitting the wires, the CAB report continued. The impact nosed the aircraft down abruptly. It crashed in a nearly vertical position at the intersection of U.S. 45 and County Trunk G in the Town of Vinland.

The CAB finding states that Cross was on a local flight. He had 224 hours of flying time, 156 hours in the type of plane he was flying.

Becomes Ill After Crash

Neenah Man Drives Car Over Curbing, Hits Parked Auto

MENASHA — Henry Kuchenbecker, 60, 318 Church St., Neenah, was taken to Theda Clark Hospital for observation Sunday after being involved in an accident at 10:45 p.m. Sunday.

Kuchenbecker was taken to the Menasha police station where he became ill. He was taken to the hospital by the Taylor Brown ambulance at 11:30 p.m.

Kuchenbecker was the driver of an auto which sideswiped a car driven by Peter M. Vande Hey, 16, route 2, Kaukauna, on Appleton Road. According to the police report, Kuchenbecker then drove his car south on Appleton Road in the wrong lane of traffic, made a turn onto DePere Street and jumped the curbing at the intersection of Sixth and DePere Streets.

The report stated Kuchenbecker's car then hit a mail box, drove across the lawn of the house on the corner, crossed a vacant lot and struck a parked car in the driveway at 509 DePere Street, pushing the car into the house.

The auto parked in the driveway belonged to Kenneth R. Dietz, 49, 603 Caroline St., Neenah.

Tree Surgeon Died Of Heart Attack

NEENAH — A Menasha tree surgeon, who was found hanging from a tree at 1017 Nicolet Blvd. at 9:45 a.m. Saturday, died of a heart attack, Dr. G. A. Steele, Winnebago County coroner, reported.

Francis J. Zemlock, 53, 212 Racine St., Menasha, was found hanging from a safety belt, his body slouched over a limb. Neenah firemen removed the body from the tree after they were notified by neighbors.

Born Feb. 10, 1908, in Neenah, he is survived by his father, four daughters, seven sons, one sister and two grandchildren. Funeral services will be at the Kessler Funeral home at 10 a.m. Wednesday; burial will be in St. Patrick cemetery.

Masses Read at Sherwood for Three Young Friends Who Rode Together Into Eternity

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Eternal rest give to them, O Lord and let perpetual light shine upon them"—Mass for the Dead.

SHERWOOD — Three young friends who rode together into eternity last Thursday were buried here today in separate services.

A fourth will follow them tomorrow.

Gerald Halbach, Shirley Kirvan and James Wagner, friends since childhood and neighbors living only blocks apart in this tiny Catholic community, were borne into Sacred Heart Catholic Church at one-hour intervals starting at 9 a.m.

Gary St. Louis will make the same trip Tuesday morning. All four were killed in a three-car accident on State 55 about two miles south of Kaukauna Thursday night.

The Rev. Henry Schmitt, pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church, Chilton, read the mass for the 18-year-old Halbach youth. Father Schmitt, a former Sacred Heart pastor, had had all four of the young people in grade school.

His sermon, the only one given at the three masses, made one mention of the accident. He spoke of the "tragedy which has touched this community." His topic, however, was on death, its meaning and preparation for it.

Flanked by Candles

The Rev. Joseph Mattern, assistant pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church, Kaukauna, read the mass for Miss Kirvan.

Sacred Heart pastor, the Rev. Father Drexler, gave the mass for Wagner. He also will preside at the St. Louis funeral Tuesday.

Million-Dollar Jump Represents Increase Of Almost 9 Per Cent

Grand Chute's assessed valuation jumped by more than $1 million in the last year Assessor John R. Stevens has reported.

The town is now assessed at $12,532,923, compared with $11,522,227 in 1960. The increase, $1,010,696, is 8.8 per cent. Appleton's valuation went up by 6.2 per cent in the same period.

True value is about twice assessed value in the town.

The Grand Chute assessment report shows the changing character of the town. Residential and mercantile assessments are up while agricultural value is down.

The town's real estate is valued at $11,238,925 this year, compared to $10,385,245 last year. Personal property is up from $1,136,992 to $1,243,998.

Three New Plats

Three new plats (Edgewood, Bluemound and Heilmann) were developed and 76 new homes built during the year. Stevens said. Residential real estate valuation increased from $5,726,725 to $6,387,475, more than 11½ per cent. Residential land is valued at $1,156,775 and improvements, $523,700.

Mercantile real estate jumped by more than 20.6 per cent, from $1,429,900 to $1,724,900. The valuation includes four new businesses. Merchants' stock valuation, included in the personal property total, is up from $276,905 to $338,567.

Manufacturers' real estate value decreased slightly, from $499,100 to $475,100, but their stock as-

Term of Duty Is Extended For Reservists

Enlistments Will Be Limited for Six-Month Duty

Extension of terms for ready reserves, restriction of the six-month active duty enlistments and drafting of medical personnel have been announced by the Army as a result of President Kennedy's moves to strengthen the armed forces.

Information released by the Army indicates that members of the ready reserve whose military obligation would expire between Oct. 1, 1961, and June 30, 1962, will be extended for one year.

Starting Sept. 1, enlistments for six months of active duty will be restricted to men under 20 years old. No six-month reservists will be inducted for active training from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31.

Doctors, dentists and other medical specialists will be drafted if there are not enough volunteers. Nurses will be called up from ready reserve units. About 400 doctors, 100 dentists, 50 veterinarians and 500 nurses will be needed.

The Army pointed out that there will be extension of active duty for six-month volunteers who are currently on active duty. They will be released to their home reserve units at the end of six months duty.

Registration Set For 1st Precinct

Mourners and Others leave Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Sherwood this morning after funeral services for Gerald Halbach, 18. Funeral masses were said later in the morning for James A. Services for St. Louis will be held Tuesday morning.

two burning candles and topped in church Sunday."

For each of the young victims it was a return for the last time to the neatly-decorated church where each had been schooled in their religious beliefs.

Young Friends Attend

As each casket was brought into the church, young friends lined each side of the walk leading up to the entrance. But there were more than young people in attendance. Men and women, some of them elderly and many who knew the victims since their birth, filled the church.

Nuns File Out

Twenty-one Roman Catholic nuns filed out of the church after attending the rites for Halbach, whose sister is a nun.

Before and after each service townspeople stood in muted silence outside the church entrance. It was hot in the late August sun, but no one seemed to care.

The community, according to Sacred Heart pastor, the Rev. Father Drexler, is in a state of where the tragedy began. The people didn't turn their heads or pause in reflection.

There was no way for them to know what had happened there.

Fourth 'R' Added to Schools' Courses

Students Will Find 'Rigor' in Many Classrooms as Classes Begin

WASHINGTON (AP)—Renewed emphasis on reading, writing and arithmetic, and a rapid spread in foreign language teaching, space-age science and how-to-study courses.

That will be the pattern in many public schools this fall when more than 37 million pupils return to the classroom.

A survey by the National Education Association (NEA), released today, indicates that grade schools and high schools from coast to coast are adding a fourth R—"rigor"—to the curriculum.

The survey doesn't necessarily indicate a trend. But some of the examples cited should please even the most bitter of those critics who call American education soft.

More English

In Davenport, Iowa, for instance, English classes for all 7th and 8th graders will be extended from 46 to 92 minutes a day. Emphasis will be on spelling, reading, and writing. Teachers will have lighter classroom loads so they can spend more time on lesson preparation, grading themes, etc.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., students in grades 7 through 12 will be expected to write at least one theme a week. Auburn, N.Y., plans increased emphasis on teaching pupils to write—and so does Harvey, Ill., and Mt. Lebanon, Pa.

A poor reader is inevitably a poor learner. Many schools this fall will introduce special courses to meet this problem.

Remedial Reading

Cheyenne, Wyo., hopes to identify potentially poor readers as early as kindergarten. Many cities, such as Farmingdale, N.Y., will offer remedial reading courses all the way through grade school and high school.

Some cities, such as Union City, N.J., and Medford, Mass., have introduced special programs for teachers to improve reading instruction.

New programs of arithmetic and mathematics, particularly those developed at Yale and the University of Illinois, are winning general acceptance across the country, the NEA survey indicated.

Flying Math

Mt. Vernon, N.Y., has gone a step further with a course in "the arithmetic of flying," designed to show the new importance of mathematics in the space age.

In another move to keep the schools in step with the space age, Parma, Ohio, reported it will introduce this fall a course in astronomy, complete with planetarium. Other schools reported that earth science courses are becoming increasingly popular.

Foreign language courses are spreading so rapidly through the U.S. public schools that the figures are running far behind the facts.

In Santa Cruz, Calif., all pupils from kindergarten through the sixth grade will get Spanish lessons this fall. In Farmingdale, N.Y., all students from grades 4 through 12 will have a 30-minute period of conversational foreign language, five days a week, all year long. Marion, Ohio is working toward a 10-year sequence in Spanish.

Studying Taught

Most educators agree that many college students flunk out in their freshman year only because they don't know how to study. This year, for the first time in the annual NEA survey, many high schools reported they plan

In Laredo, Tex., for instance, there will be a one-semester course in how to study, designed especially for college-bound students. Boise, Idaho, and Tyler, Tex., plan similar programs with emphasis on taking notes in the classroom.

Bloomfield, N.J., will experiment with the use of teaching machines in special classes for mentally retarded children.

Reno, Nev., plans special classes

Casper, Wyo., is scheduling more special classes for both gifted and retarded learners.

the many recommended home fallout shelters, people talk about it. Yet, there probably aren't 25 in the Fox Cities area.

Plans are available in reams from Civil Defense officials.

A phone solicitation service that surveyed 230 persons a few weeks ago offered this information. "I asked whether people thought it was a good idea to build a shelter. No one had a shelter. After I questioned them a bit, they said 'Well yes, but not now.' They said they couldn't afford it."

The Federal Housing Administration has allocated funds for loans to those who want to build shelters. The cost to have a shelter built, up to Civil Defense specifications, by a contractor is about $350. With the loan, one may be had with a small down payment. For the handyman, materials delivered to the county cost $160.

If they had to, how would people move out of this area? It would be as orderly and efficient as if someone yelled "Fire!" in a crowded room. Most of those called said they'd head for the woods. Many would run out of gas on the way.

There is an established evacuation route that meshes with an over-all evacuation plan for the state. If there is to be order, it must be used.

But the situation would have to be dire before anyone in the Fox Cities were allowed to move. This area will be evacuated only as a last resort. Other cities will evacuate into this area before this area moves.

Can be Improved

Something can be done to improve all this—if people care. Civil Defense officials will go on offering Fox Cities area residents the chance to know and to learn. All have future plans and future programs. But they have had past plans and programs, too, and little has happened.

Lee Penney has planned a school of Civil Defense. He wants to be able to train 240 persons a month at the Appleton School of Vocational and Adult Education in basic Civil Defense, first aid, basic welfare, radiological monitoring, auxiliary police practices and nuclear warfare.

A stack of 20,000 pamphlets on the instructions will be printed and distributed all over, if people want them. They will describe the school and contain a coupon on which the interested can sign up. But the county court-house annex basement is already stacked with thousands of pamphlets the people didn't want.

Injured were Jeerome DeCoster, 24, 927 N. Depot St., Little Chute, small cut over the eye and Roy Vandenberg, 18, 703 N. Wilson St., and has not been reseeded, the claim says, and the front sidewalk was extensively cracked by heavy equipment used during repairs. He wants the sidewalk replaced.

Schuetter's claim has been turned over to the city's insurance company and City Atty. Don Jury.

The 1961 report also lists 4,694 chickens valued at $2,347 and mink valued at $11,500.

Swamp, cut-over and waste land in Grand Chute has decreased from 1,732 acres worth $38,410 to 1,637 acres worth $35,100. Timber acreage is up from 112 to 236 acres, but timber real estate value is down from $7,850 to $7,300.

The personal property assessments include $257,702 in machinery, tools and patterns, up $31,772 from last year; $142,298 in furniture, fixtures and equipment, up $46,143; and $2,000 in hangars on rented land.

The town has 289 acres of state land, 994 acres of county land and 185 acres of other land which are tax exempt.

Fifty bee colonies and one mink farm were reported. Beekeepers and mink farmers are subject to occupational tax.

Youth Slashed With Knife in Fight at Camp

Migrant Workers Disagree Over Refusal of Loan

CHILTON—Casillas R. Radolfo, 18, San Antonio, Tex., was held on $2,000 bond today in Calumet County for a hearing in Justice Court Sept. 5 after a knife fight in a Dundas migrant camp early today. He is charged with aggravated assault.

Radolfo was arrested by Calumet County Undersheriff C. J. Kosmosky after Jose Pina, 19, San Antonio, Tex., was found on a Dundas street.

Radolfo told Kosmosky Pina came to him in a Dundas tavern and asked to borrow some money. When Radolfo refused, Pina tried to throw a soda bottle at him, Radolfo told Kosmosky.

Pina received cuts on the lower right arm and palm of his hand. He left the camp and fainted from loss of blood while he walked down a Dundas street. He was taken by city ambulance to Kaukauna Community hospital where 15 stitches were required to close his wounds.

swine barn at $8,000. "Then the association could go ahead and run the fair, forget about the buildings and make some money," one said.

All members felt the county could never get title to the grounds unless the association was assured that it could operate the fair. Fair Association president Michael Burns indicated in June that the association wished a five-year contract to operate the fair as a clause in any sale document.

County Business?

It was asked, "Does Outagamie County want to get into the fair business?" The answer, referring to appropriations, was "Not any more than we are now."

If the county owned the grounds, exaggerated costs to the county would be $1,400 a year for committee service, $2,000 for insurance, $4,000 for the new buildings and $3,000 for maintenance. From their total $3,000 was subtracted "for good reason" to arrive at the $7,000 annual cost of ownership.

"We might have to make them (the association) an ultimatum," one member said toward the close of the session "You sell to us at a reasonable cost or paddle your own canoe."

Nelson Vetoes Hunting Land School Tax Bill

Appeal Procedure Too Involved Under Measure, He Says

MADISON (AP)—Gov. Gaylord Nelson today vetoed a bill that would have subjected state owned hunting and fishing grounds to local school tax assessments.

Under present law, each town with school districts containing public hunting grounds or game reserves or refuges receives an annual payment in lieu of school taxes. The payment is determined by the State Department of Taxation.

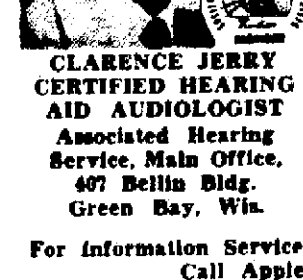

The Senate Bill rejected by Nelson would have added fishing grounds to the payment provision question the local assessment.

Involved Procedure

"If this bill were to become law, it would be necessary for the Conservation Department to institute appeal proceedings before local boards of review whenever the department had reason to question a local assessment," he said.

"While I endorse the principle of requiring the state to make payments in lieu of taxes on lands removed from the local tax rolls, I also appreciate the concern of the Conservation Department relative to the appeal procedures," the governor added.

Nelson recommended that new legislation be prepared which would provide for local assessment of state owned hunting and fishing grounds and direct appeal to the commissioner of taxation in those cases where the Conservation Department has reason to question the local assessment.

Broken Sewer Results in Damage Claim

Car Fell Into Hole After Earth Washed Out Under Driveway

H. Karl Schuetter, 521 W. Fifth St., whose car fell into a large hole caused by faulty sanitary storm sewer, has sent Appleton a claim for damages.

Schuetter's car dropped into the 10-foot deep hole when a concrete slab in his driveway broke away in June. Ground under the slab had been washed away.

His claim lists 14 items that he says must be repaired or replaced. Six are listed as a direct result of the failure of the sewer and eight as a direct result of sewer repairs.

Damage to the car that fell into the hole was assessed at $407, he says. Because he could not use the garage while repairs were being made to the sewer, his other car had to be left outside and cleaning and polishing it cost $17.50.

House, Drapes Soiled

The sidewalk in front of the house, the driveway, front porch and rear patio all have settled and need repairing, he reports. The cost has not been determined.

Exhaust fumes from a crane and pump used during repairs discolored the white house and the draperies inside. The cost of washing the house is not listed. Cleaning the drapes will cost $25, the claim says.

Cleaning carpeting in the house will cost $60, it is estimated. The carpeting was soiled, Schuetter says, by workmen checking the sewer in the basement and using the phone, and because only one entrance to the house could be used after a safety fence was erected around the caved-in area.

A birch tree in the front yard was damaged and is dying, he says, as are four evergreens removed during repairs, then replanted.

Seat Belts Backed By Safety Experts

Law Awaiting Nelson Signature Would Require Them on New Cars

Gov. Gaylord Nelson is expected to sign a bill making safety belts mandatory starting with 1962 model cars. The bill has passed both houses of the state legislature.

Safety experts and law enforcement officials nationally and locally have endorsed the use of safety belts.

Here are some of the questions people ask about safety belts and answers from safety experts:

What protection do seat belts give in case of collision?

Seat belts help prevent passengers from being ejected. This is important because chances of being killed in an accident are five times greater if thrown from the vehicle. Belts also reduce the force of impact of the body on any part of the car's interior. Further, when the driver is held firmly in place by a seat belt he is able to maintain better control of his vehicle after a collision occurs.

Do seat belts protect passengers riding in a car involved in minor accidents?

Passengers are protected from possible injury when caught unaware by sudden stops, bumps, and rear-end pileups. All occupants are safer if the driver is kept behind the wheel to control the car.

What if I am caught in a burning or submerged car with my seat belt fastened?

Less than one per cent of all injury-producing accidents involve fire or submersion. Even in such instances, chances of remaining conscious in order to free yourself and escape from the vehicle are greatly increased when wearing a seat belt.

Is it necessary to use seat belts on short trips to the store, the office or to perform minor errands?

More than half of all injury-producing automobile accidents occur in urban areas. Three out of four traffic deaths occur within 25 miles of home. And more than half the traffic accidents involving either injury or death occur at speeds less than 40 mph.

If I own a convertible wouldn't passengers be safer not strapped in?

In a convertible the greatest danger is that of being pitched over the windshield or over the side. All types of cars can be involved in rollover type accidents—however, it only occurs once in every five accidents. A rollover is dangerous with or without seat belts.

Is there a possibility the belt will break?

A good belt will stand 3,000 to 4,000 pounds pull from your body. Only about two in every 100 belts break. In a severe crash, if a belt breaks it will already have done its job. You will land with a ton and a half less force.

When should the seat belt be fastened?

As soon as driver and passengers are seated in the car. Once you have started to drive you may not have a chance to adjust the belt properly and comfortably.

Are safety belts necessary in rear seats?

Yes. In a head-on crash, rear-seat passengers may be thrown from the car or against front-seat passengers. They can be hurled forward with such force that they may straddle the dashboard or windshield with even greater impact than those seated in front.

Should more than one person use a single belt?

No. One passenger could injure another fastened within the same belt. The driver should always have a separate belt.

How tight should the seat belt be fastened?

A snug fit. Tight enough to hold the occupant firmly in place, but loose enough to be comfortable. Can the belt itself injure or kill users?

Choking and lower-torso injuries occur six times more often to non-seat belt users. Belts do not pull across the abdomen, and if properly snug you will not slide down.

Will seat belts tear, stain or otherwise injure clothing?

When properly worn, color-fast belts will not injure clothing.

Are seat belts comfortable?

Seat belts promote better posture and substantially reduce fatigue, especially during long trips. There is no need to strain to stay in place during normal stops and turns.

Will seat belts detract from the car's appearance?

No. Belts come in a wide variety of colors with decorated buckles.

How long does it take to secure and release the buckle?

About five seconds are required to fasten the buckle—and just an instant to release it.

What are "G's," referred to in explaining deceleration and impact?

One "G" is equal to the force of gravity. The "G" requirement is the amount of restraining force needed to keep you in your seat the event of a collision.

How many belts can be installed per seat?

One per passenger.

Can anyone install seat belts?

Have seat belts installed by your new car dealer, as prescribed by the manufacturers.

Will children them without argument?

Yes. Make it smart and attractive for them to use seat belts. Identify each belt with their own name. They can imagine themselves as "space pilots" or "airline stewardesses." It can be fun to wear seat belts. Racing drivers, FBI agents, policemen and state troopers wear seat belts.

Why should children wear them?

Most of all children should wear them. Never drive with a child standing up. A crash stop at only 15 miles an hour can kill him in a split second. Parents can also drive better when both hands stay on the wheel—without the need to hold one arm out to keep a child from plunging forward.

Can children open belts in an emergency?

Any 4-year-old child or over should be able to do so.

How can you encourage guests in your car to use seat belts?

Set an example. Make it the "smart" or "stylish" thing to do.

Do seat belts encourage driver carelessness?

Highly unlikely. Psychiatrists studying intensive seat belt use reports have found the opposite to be true.

How can you select the right seat belt with confidence?

Insist on an approved belt that measures up to standards established by the Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE) or the General Services Administration of the U.S. Government (GSA).

4 Vehicles Crash South Of Bonduel

BONDUEL — An accident about noon Saturday five miles south of here on State 47 involving three cars and a gas truck resulted in one person being hospitalized and a total of $2,500 damages.

The collision occurred when a car driven by Osborn Bergsbaken was attempting to make a left turn off the road. The automobile driven by Lillian Wojciehowski, route 2, Seymour, stopped behind the Bergsbaken vehicle and was struck by a gas truck driven by Bergsbaken's brother, Halldon.

The Wojciehowski car went onto the shoulder and the truck went to the other lane of the road and struck the car driven by Ronald Groves, Appleton. The Groves automobile swung around and hit the left front fender of the Osborn Bergsbaken car, Shawano County Sheriff's office reported.

Groves' wife was taken to Shawano Community Hospital in the Bonduel Ambulance. She suffered a cut scalp, bruised chest, possible rib fractures and knee injuries.

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results—here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids—without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

This Painting, Dubbed "The Missile of Augustus" because of its similarity to a Titan or Atlas missile, was unearthed in recent digging on Rome's Palatine Hill. The artwork decorates the wall of a room archeologists think may have belonged to Caesar Augustus (63 B.C. to 14 A.D.), grand nephew of Julius Caesar.

Russians Seen as People, Not Symbols in New Hindus Work

BY VAN ALLEN BRADLEY
Chicago Daily News Service
"House Without a Roof," by Maurice Hindus, Doubleday, $6.95.

CHICAGO—Maurice Hindus' "House Without a Roof" is an exemplary book of its kind, for it deals knowledgeably with the Russians as people—as individuals and not as blank symbols of a kind of political life we abhor. It is "must" reading for anybody seeking to understand Russia today.

Born in Russia, the author emigrated to America, was educated at Colgate and Harvard universities, became a foreign correspondent for American publications and in 40 years has written more than a dozen authoritative books about his native land.

As a leading non-communist observer he is well fitted to answer such questions as why people who can orbit men around the earth still cling to obsolete methods of planting corn and how a country where everybody reads can remain so ignorant about the rest of the world.

In introducing his picture of 43 years of Soviet history, he writes: "The most violent revolution ever engineered by man, it has also been spectacularly creative; else there would have been no Sputniks, no Cosmonaut, and Russia would not have become the superpower that it is, second only to America."

"But the creativeness has been achieved in a traditional Russian way, by iron rule from above and in complete disregard of human cost and the freedom that the West cherishes."

Hindus has no hope that either the worker or intellectual will forcibly change the Russian system. Still he sees signs that all is not sweetness and light in the workers' paradise.

In Days of Augustus Archeologists Find Piece of Art Which Might Depict Spacecraft

BY BENNET BOLTON
ROME (AP) — Slick, inter-space missiles in the days of Caesar Augustus? Impossible. Yet new diggings on Rome's famous Palatine Hill have uncovered a painting that could easily depict a Titan or an Atlas missile.

The yellow ochre artwork decorates the wall of a room that belong to Augustus himself. The modern-looking cylinder stands vertically on slender fins on some kind of pad. Its needle nose points skyward, as though awaiting the push of a button.

The mysterious object has been dubbed "The Missile of Augustus." Scientists say that whatever symbolism the painting had undoubtedly is lost forever in obscurity.

Yields Another Treasure
More important than this one object, however is the fact that the ancient hill may be yielding still another treasure—the house of Augustus, first Roman emperor.

The Palatine is the Grand Central Station of archeology. Ever since the first recorded excavations about 400 or 500 a.d., scientists have been periodically digging, sifting and poking there. Prof. Gianfilippo Carettoni, noted for his accurate past findings on the Palatine, heads the team that made the new discoveries.

Lowered Taxes
Caesar Octavius Augustus, grand-nephew of Julius Caesar, lived from 63 b.c., to 14 a.d. He was the man for whom this month was named. He took over faint scribbles close to the floor along one wall. Perhaps the room was used frequently by children.

Suetonius wrote that Augustus actually lowered taxes, and revived Roman culture in a long and tranquil period called the "Pax Romana" (Roman peace).

So far Carettoni has uncovered only two rooms. Several findings coincide with things that Suetonius, Ovid, Tacitus and other ancient historians wrote about Augustus.

They said the emperor lived on the Palatine in a modest house, without marble floors, and that he had a temple built to the Apollo of Aziaeo to celebrate his naval victory at Actium over Sextus Pompeius (31 B.C.).

Rooms Bear Resemblance
The newly uncovered rooms also have no marble floors, appear to have been built during the Augustan era and stand near the site of the temple of Jupiter—which may have been rededicated from the temple of Apollo Aziaeo. Statuary fragments found in the excavation are of some god, perhaps the same Apollo.

Suetonius' writings recall what Caesar Augustus enjoyed tossing dice. One of Carettoni's rooms shows signs that it may have been a game room. Imbedded in a long spindle-like object is a set of cubes that may have been dice.

In this same room, the "Room of the Masques," are illegible in-

Attic Theatre Proves Talent for Musicals

Pleased Audience Gives Warmest Applause to Four Leads in Big Cast

BY JAY JOSELYN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Attic Theater opened a slambang musical Saturday night at Lawrence College Music-Drama Center to the sweet sound satisfied audiences make. The 13-year-old community theater started a new era most auspiciously in a brand new medium.

The example of America's contribution to the performing arts being staged this week is "Anything Goes."

In the tradition of musical comedies, "Anything Goes" has a big cast and a quartet of meaty roles. Don Jones sliced a huge chunk of theater for his first Fox Cities directorial helping.

Although the enthusiasm of the opening night audience Saturday equalled anything that ever resounded off the experimental theater's walls, the warmest acclaim was reserved for the show's big four, Mrs. John Maring, Daril Riley, Steve Jolin and Bill Meisle, with a soupcon of an edge to Meisle and most appreciative asides to the beautiful Lynn Kellogg and the piquant Lila Anderson.

Audience Liked Show
"Anything Goes" certainly was a popular success Saturday. However, Jones' musical comedy attempt falls short of a complete artistic triumph.

Ethel Merman created the lead in "Anything Goes" and Mrs. Maring is a successful successor. Her voice is big and authoritative and she has achieved a wonderfully Mermanlike trombone quality.

Mrs. Maring has a wonderful vocal instrument, but Saturday it was apparent she was not aware of the compelling force of her voice and gilded the lily with extraneous gestures. The show is Mrs. Maring's theatrical debut

Gypsy Rose Lee Picked as Star Of Musical

'Threepenny Opera' Set for Milwaukee On 16-City Tour

BY WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Gypsy Rose Lee is putting on her black lace dainties again—for musical comedy instead of burlesque.

"I thought I'd packed 'em away forever," remarks the demure ex-queen of genteel striptease. "I'm getting some back from museums."

Still curvaceously sleek, Miss Lee has signed for a 7½-month tour of 16 cities as leading lady of "The Threepenny Opera."

Announcement of the contract was made today by Stanley Chase, Carmen Capalbo and Lucille Lortel, producers of the satiric diversion which has been hypnotizing customers for six years off-Broadway and grossed 2½-million dollars.

Capalbo, who also directs, regards discovery of Gypsy's melodic ability as "absolutely fascinating."

Sings 'Mack the Knife'
"The part is being adjusted somewhat," Capalbo notes. "And at the windup she'll do a little, little touch of strip."

The show's most renowned song, "Mack the Knife" is being entrusted to Miss Lee's vocal chords.

"I don't mind in the least," the star says. "I'll sing in whatever key you want. I'm like a drum—it doesn't have a key either."

resistible Cole Porter music. The dancers showed considerable restraint to hold to the plan while all around them toes were tapping.

Nimble Dancer
Gary Fursfeld, proved to be a nimble dancer during the show and had charge of the costuming of the piece. His color concept was good and his design ideas were noteworthy, but there was something lacking in the fit which was more suitable for a Hawaiian excursion rather than a European trek.

The Attic Theater company has entered a field unknown to it and missed most of the hazards. The few casualties failed to weaken the impact of the venture. Everyone is the winner; the audience gets a wallowing good show and the troupe gets a good, practical education as well as a show that stands well in a season of exceptionally fine shows.

The 12th season of the Attic Theatre will be hard to beat, but prepared a well disciplined corps of dancers but substituted something like folk dancing for the abandon more suitable for the ir-

Thurber Looks Forward To His 'Finest Hour'

Best Part of Life Should Always be in Front, Creator of Walter Mitty Feels

BY JAMES THURBER

To a blind writer five years older than our blind century, it is far easier to remember the times that he is glad are over rather than the times, or time, he wishes he could relive.

Nostalgic reverie, like amorous fantasy, belongs in the category of escape, along with smoking, drinking, and tranquilizers; and is neither a kinetic nor a dynamic energy in a modern world that increasingly demands both.

The non-escapist would surely like to do to improve, in his tiny corner, the human condition, now so often referred to as the human predicament or human struggle.

Our well-known American urge to escape from the menaces and obligations of the present is best illustrated by our insatiable hunger for Westerns on television.

Good Influence

I like to believe that our new President, and his chief associates, living with such vitality in 1961, will have a good influence in getting millions of their compatriots out of the Last Chance saloon and into the New Chance living hour.

The thing that disturbs me most (a darned good title for a symposium) is the apathetic, dependent, and unself-reliant attitude of so many of the hundreds of school children who write to me, practically asking me to write for them what they think about my work.

One of my favorite English expressions (I am writing this in London) is the vital "Get cracking!" At drinking parties in America, I am often there without actually being present, because after many years of writing news stories in city rooms, with 20 typewriters banging around me, I can concentrate in the midst of babble, or even Babel or Bedlam.

A. I. Glatson

At such moments of obliviousness, I am trying to write something new, and not under the name of A. I. Glatson (try spelling that backward).

When I sit silent at parties, I am not remembering the time, at my 13th birthday party, that I kissed a little girl named Eva; or my election in 1913 as president of my senior class at East High School in Columbus, Ohio; or the evening I won a zither in a rotation pool tournament in that city; or the first time I read "The Wizard of Oz," or the day in 1927 when I got, as a reporter for the old New York Evening Post, the first interview that Thomas Alva Edison, had given to a newspaper man in many years.

New Comic Set For Spike Jones Show Tonight

Dick Patterson Runs Through String of Name Impressions

BY THE TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 5-4) — The Americans repeats its only comedy and, due to the fine work of Dick Jones, it's actually funny. During a brief respite between Civil War battles, some of the Yanks and Bobs fraternize. They share a spy glass to peek at a pretty girl.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 11)—Surfside 6's repeat considers a phony fund raising gang. Duffy (Diane McBain) is involved with a drive to raise money for a hospital. The program makes a point of stating that most charity drives are legitimate, but this one isn't.

8-8:30 (Channel 2)—You'll be exposed to a new comedian on The Spike Jones Show tonight. Dick Patterson is his name and, at a barber shop skit, he mimics Lloyd Bridges, Shelley Berman, Bette Davis, Walter Winchell, Richard Nixon and some others. Working with Helen Grayco in a sketch about a girl's problems in a summer resort, he plays a muscle-bound romeo. There's also a bit about suburban living—the model home is the Taj Mahal.

8:30-9 (Channel 2) — The Ann Sothern Show repeats a wild one with Olive (Ann Tyrrell) and her dentist (Louis Nye) planning to elope. But it doesn't quite happen. The elopement is stalled in what is designed as a comedy of errors.

8:30-9:30 (Channel 11)—Adventures in Paradise spends its little repeat working up to one little surprise. When it comes, it's just what you've been expecting. James Barton is a beachcomber with a mysterious source of funds. Susan Oliver and some crooks wonder where the money tree grows.

9-9:30 (Channel 2)—Glenn Miller Time has its usual parade of oldies, from the Miller band book. Ray McKinley conducts, with Johnny Desmond, Patty Clark and The Castles Sisters providing the vocals.

9:30-10 (Channel 2)—Brenner's repeat tells of the conflict between a social worker and a policeman concerning juvenile crime. Since Lee Grant is the former and Edward Binns the latter, both views are believable and well-presented. As usual, an above average show.

10:30-12 (Channel 5-4) — Hugh Downs is host for the Jack Paar show tonight.

GOP May Agree to Tax Redistribution

Impression Party Has Rejected Plan Denied by 2 Developments

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The Impression Party has flatly rejected Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson's call for redistribution of existing state tax receipts historically shared with localities is denied by two recent developments.

1. The Republican-drafted tax revision measure now heading for the governor's desk for approval or rejection contains a provision for an examination of tax distribution problems and a mandate for a redistribution recommendation to a succeeding legislature.

2. The Republican legislative leadership, meanwhile, has set up an informal committee of Republican legislators to consider the tax distribution problem on the assumption that the issue will be before the lawmakers again in the legislative session reconvening Oct. 30.

Basic Involvement

The distribution argument basically involves the local shares of the state-levied and collected income tax on persons and corporations and the state-assessed corporation tax on public service companies such as utilities.

Together they amount to a vital $100,000,000 a year and are integral to the financing of Wisconsin cities and villages, and to a lesser degree, counties and independent school districts.

Historically, the distribution has been governed by the origin of the tax payments. The localities are located get the largest share of the utility tax payment. The localities in which persons and corporations are domiciled get the locally-designated shares of the income tax payments.

Offer Complex Formula

Nelson and his advisors concluded that the historical system led to inequities, through favoring districts with adequate local tax resources and helping only slightly if at all those other districts with slender local tax bases. They offered a complex formula of replacement governed by population, tax capacity, and expenditures experience.

Republicans were cool, their reactions ranging from skepticism to outright suspicion. Suspicion was based on the fact that most of the benefits of the governor's plan would go to urban districts of Democratic voting behavior, at the expense of out-state areas of Republican voting patterns.

The skepticism was grounded on the apparent fact that the Nelson program equated expenditures with need — which conservatives in the legislature were disinclined to accept.

Modify Plan

The legislative roll calls on the governor's redistribution formula, to modify somewhat the moreover, showed enough resistance among Democrats to suggest that even with the legislative under Democratic control allocations such a plan could not be adopted.

The record, therefore, has broadly hinted that the governor will be required to modify his plan the best of circumstances under the best of circumstances. Meanwhile private discussions among Republicans have indicated that there is a willingness, if the governor appears disposed to compromise on the sales tax question, to modify somewhat the existing distribution laws to eliminate the extreme disparity between communities in state tax allocations.

Water Study Assigned to State Council

Result Likely To be Report to 1963 Legislature

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The idea of greater coordination in state government programs involving management and protection of water resources, disputed inconclusively during long weeks of the regular legislative session, remains on the legislative study calendar.

The study of water resources and the state government's laws and administrative procedures relating to them is one of the topics specifically assigned to the Legislative Council for the 1961-62 legislative interim.

Increasing Interest

The result is likely to be a report with recommendations to the legislature of 1963, and another round of public discussion of a subject that has attracted increasing public interest. It is not likely, legislative leaders say, that the subject will be acted upon in the recessed legislative session scheduled to start on Oct. 30.

A 1959-61 interim committee examined water resource problems at length, in collaboration with a citizens advisory committee.

Largely through the efforts of Gordon Bubolz, an Appleton civic leader who spoke for the Wolf River Improvement Association, the legislative group turned in a report criticizing the multiplicity of government agencies in the water resources protection and regulation field, and complaining of the lack of central authority and direction.

Control Agency

But when it brought in a bill to set up an independent state waters control agency, other departments and some influential private citizen groups such as the Isaac Walton League protested and the legislature side-tracked the proposal.

The new study group has also been directed to study a revision of the state drainage laws.

There IS a difference between Merchandising and TIMELY Merchandising

When you've got what people want . . . when they want it, it's a good idea to TELL them about it. But what people want today is not necessarily what they wanted yesterday or will want tomorrow.

That's why newspaper ads make the big, PROFITABLE difference in your merchandising and sales. Newspaper ads are flexible, immediate and timely. They are up-to-date reminders with specific appeals that can be changed or altered throughout the various seasons to match your customer's buying habits.

They are current . . . with the same NEWS appeal as the rest of the contents of the NEWSpaper, thus assuring you of peak reader interest.

When you have something to SELL . . . use the advertising medium that knows the difference between TELLING and SELLING . . . the medium geared to timely merchandising. Use the advertising columns of your daily newspaper . . . the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Browns Defeat 49ers, 27-24, in Last 7 Seconds

Bivins Stars As Bears Jolt Redskins, 29-13

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Browns, picked by a regiment of experts as the class of the National Football League's eastern division this year, own their first pre-season victory in two tries today—but seven ticks of the clock and some sure-foot kicking by an old-timer named Lou Groza made the difference.

A scoring pass play from Milt Pioni to Ray Renfro with seven seconds left gave the Browns a 27-24 squeaker over the San Francisco 49ers in Sunday's only NFL exhibition.

Fighting the clock and hampering the 49er defense steadily, Cleveland pulled it out with a 72-yard advance in those waning moments. Groza contributed a pair of field goals and added three conversions in the Browns' victory.

Rams Tie Giants

In other NFL weekend exhibition games: The Green Bay Packers whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 31-10 and the Baltimore Colts trimmed Minnesota's new Vikings 13-3 on Friday night. And on Saturday night, the Los Angeles Rams scrambled to a 17-17 tie with the New York Giants and Chicago Bears over-ran the Washington Redskins 29-13.

The Rams staged a 14-point sprint in the final six minutes in earning the 17-17 tie with the Giants. Quarterback Zeta Bratkowski, something less than a sensation otherwise, carried in the second Ram touchdown on a two-yard rollout with 58 seconds to play, and Danny Villanueva brought the deadlock with a conversion kick.

Charlie Bivins, a kickoff and punt return specialist as a rookie, last season, provided an offensive dazzler for the Bears. The hefty halfback from Morris Brown College broke it open against the Redskins in the last quarter, flashing 79 and 93 yards for touchdowns.

Ford Unveils Middle-Size Car for 1962

Claims Autos Will Last at Least 10,000 Miles Longer

DETROIT (AP)— Ford Motor Co. showed off a new middle-sized series and a 3-seat Thunderbird today as it previewed its 1962 models to the press.

Ford said the average life of its 33 models offered in 1962 is expected to be at least 10,000 miles greater than that of present models. It said the new Fords are designed to require normal maintenance only twice a year for the average 15,000-mile-a-year driver.

The middle-sized series is a 115-inch wheelbase Fairlane, in between Ford's compact (109.5 inch) Falcon and its standard (119-inch) Ford.

For claims the car offers "the economy of the compact cars, but is larger and offers all the optional equipment available on the Galaxie (Ford's standard series)."

All its lines — Galaxie, Thunderbird and Falcon — have been restyled extensively, Ford said.

Donald N. Frey, division product planning manager, described Ford's features for reduced maintenance.

"Twice-a-year maintenance is a reality on the 1962 model," Frey said, "with chassis and wheel bearing lubrication, fuel filter replacement, and engine coolant change recommended only every 30,000 miles and oil changes and minor lubrications only every 6,000 miles."

Ford dealers are investing more than $31 million in 1961 to expand their service and sales facilities, Matthew S. McLaughlin, division general sales manager, said.

Inside Labor

Turmoil Behind Bolshoi Border

BY VICTOR RIESEL

MUNICH—There's turmoil behind the Bolshoi border. There are hangings. There are purges. There has even been a show trial in a movie house. There is torture. There is unrest. There is hunger. In Poland, in Bulgaria, even in Czechoslovakia, the wealthiest of all, in Hungary and Albania, in all the earthbound satellites, party leaders are being imprisoned and union chiefs are being dumped. Military and naval officials have been executed in one or another of the captive nations.

Riesel

Some of this I heard in refugee camps to which I was flown near Trieste, and Rome and Naples. Some of the evidence comes right out of satellite sources. And now here in Munich, where a band of quiet men keep a giant stethoscope to the hearts of the Soviet controlled nations, this is all corroborated by hard documentary evidence. This unsung band of specialists, the world's best informed, are the experts on the various desks of Radio Free Europe, a private organization which monitors all that goes on inside the bloc and broadcasts the true news of the outside free world.

Tops in Torture
In Czechoslovakia there are purges of industrial and agricultural managers. In Bulgaria there are purges in the labor federation for not forcing swifter production. But it is the George Orwellian state of Albania which tops all others in torture and executions. So much so that refugees finally have begun to flee from that tightly locked land.

We've only had a crack at questioning forty or fifty of them. But each separately tells the same story. To be merely hungry is a luxury in Albania. To be on the verge of perpetual starvation is normal. We have learned that well-paid workers earn from 4,000 to 5,000 leks a month. This would be the equivalent of a skilled auto or steel worker back home earning $7.50 a week on which to support a family in New York, Detroit, Pittsburgh or Chicago. Now mark this: farm workers get 20 to 30 leks a day. Women on farms earn 15 leks a day. This would give them an average of about a dollar a week plus some food.

How are you going to keep them down on the farm on such rotting standards? How are workers and professionals to subsist in plants, schools and offices on such pay? Naturally, with little to lose but their lives, there is unrest and "anti-state" talk.

Big Purge Trial

Albania's Prime Minister Hoxha is the one, who ran the pig purge trial in the "cinema" house. Admission free. Result: four top-ranking naval and military people were executed.

When ordinary men are put to death they are hanged in the streets and left to swing from the Tirana counterpart of a lamppost for several days.

But neither these hangings, nor charges that Yugoslavia or our own Sixth Fleet is conspiring with certain Albanians, nor the threat that anyone found in this conspiracy will be tortured, can quell the unrest.

Thus, in Albania, today, there are 14 large concentration camps and 22 political prisons. In all, some 30,000 persons, or 2.5 per cent of the total population, have been imprisoned. Most of them are still in these camps and pens.

Among these prisoners are the leaders of what passes for an Albanian labor movement. They, along with other officials who have tried to raise the living standards from starvation to subsistence, are being tortured by a secret police from which the OGPU could have learned a trick or two. This is the Sigurimi—Hoxha's specialists in the weirdest tortures this side of Stalin and Genghis Khan.

Cut Off Hands

There are several kinds of tortures, all revealed in by Prime Minister Hoxha, who has never taken Stalin's picture down off the wall—Khrushchev or no Khrushchev. This Sigurimi uses hand vises to cut off circulation or even the hand. They use electrical current on prisoners' limbs in a manner guaranteed to create the most excruciating pain in the legs, or the cranium via skull plates.

No sense going into more Orwellian details of ghastliness. Point is that this Hoxha is a very tough man. In Moscow, at the last International Communist Party conference, he stood up and said, "Khrushchev has distorted the thesis of Leninism to suit his own purposes. No party has yet seized power without resorting to violence . . ." The point here is that Hoxha stood up to Chairman Khrushchev. This means there is factionalism and N. S. Khrushchev is in no position to crush it.

So when you add it all up—the factionalism, the torture, the executions, the purges inside each satellite, the collapse of some collective farming, the disruption of food distribution, the creaking productive machinery in such lands as Bulgaria, you get a picture of internal chaos.

Could be that's why Chairman Khrushchev is making so much noise over Berlin. He wants us to take our eyes off the rest of his not so happy Socialist world. (Copyright, 1961)
